Debt Ceiling—Reform

WASHINGTON (AP) — Voting only a limited extension of Treasury borrowing authority, the House Ways and Means Committee moved Thursday to bring President Nixon's administration before Congress prior to the November election to defend its economic policies.

The committee ruled out pleas by some Democrats to write tax loophole-closing into the pending debt ceiling bill.

But there were promises that it will schedule some public discussion this year of the tax reform for which Democratic candidates and others have been calling.

By voice vote, which was not unanimous, the committee approved legislation to continue the present $450-billion limit on the public debt through Oct. 31. Without some congressional action, the limit would drop July 1 to $400 billion, some $25 billion below the actual debt, producing a fiscal crisis.

The administration wanted a $15-billion increase, which it said would make it unnecessary to enact further legislation until next year.

The House is expected to act on the debt ceiling within two weeks.

By insuring that the borrowing-taxing issue will remain alive through the present session of Congress, Chairman Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., apparently moved to keep his control of tax reform action in the House, warding off efforts to bring it to a head immediately by amendments to the debt ceiling bill.

Mills said in an interview he intends to schedule hearings later in the summer on his proposal to force a review of 54 tax preference provisions by bringing them up for repeal over a three-year period. Final action, however, appeared unlikely until next year.

Indochina War

SAIGON (AP) — South Vietnamese marines stormed the nine-mile defense line above Hue and advanced into enemy-held territory Thursday while U.S. officials disclosed the heaviest air strikes over North Vietnam in three weeks.

Close to Saigon, government troops battled North Vietnamese forces menacing the capital's western flanks. A South Vietnamese bomber trying to flush out the enemy at Trang Bang accidentally dropped napalm on young children, villagers and government soldiers, killing or wounding about 20 persons.

About 1,000 men fought several hundred North Vietnamese at the district town 28 miles northwest of Saigon. They called in napalm and bombs.

In neighboring Cambodia, enemy ground and rocket attacks on the capital of Phnom Penh and the nearby town of Takhmau killed at least 20 persons, including 18 women and children huddled in trenches.

Navy and Air Force pilots smashed a trucking center on the outskirts of Hanoi and ranged near Haiphong and the southern port of Vinh, crippling bridges, petroleum depots and supply stores. B-52s bombed supply caches 9 and 17 miles above the demilitarized zone, the U.S. Command said.

Associated Press correspondent Richard Blystone reported more than 2,000 marines, using tanks and backed by massive U.S. air support and naval guns, moved over the My Chanh River into northern most Quang Tri Province.

High sources said the mission was to take prisoners, evacuate refugees and gather intelligence, but they did not rule out the possibility of holding ground which might put them within striking distance of Quang Tri.

Associated Press photographer Huynh Cong Ut reported from Trang Bang that perhaps a score of civilians and soldiers were killed or wounded by the napalm dropped in the wrong place by a South Vietnamese air force A1 Skyraider. The propeller-driven plane dropped four drums of jellied gasoline only 50 yards from a Cao Dai temple.

Medics treated youngsters whose skin had been charred in the searing inferno.

Military sources revealed another accidental air attack occurred Wednesday, southwest of My Chanh, where airborne troops are pushing against enemy soldiers above Hue. South Vietnamese A37 jets struck advance paratrooper units, killing nine and wounding 21, the sources said.

Muskie—McGovern

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. George McGovern talked with Sen. Edmund S. Muskie Thursday, and McGovern said Muskie asked for more time to decide his future role in the campaign for the Democratic presidential nomination.

"There was no pressure from me to get him to withdraw or release his delegates," McGovern said after a brief discussion with Muskie in a room off the Senate floor.

Aides to Muskie confirmed the meeting. And they said Muskie would announce his decision Friday in a luncheon address to the National Press Club here.

Reports persisted that Muskie would abandon entirely his campaign and support McGovern.

McGovern said he and Muskie discussed only "staying in contact and avoiding disrupting the Democratic party."

McGovern quoted Muskie as saying he was most interested in defeating President Nixon. "And so am I," McGovern said.

Has Strong Antibusing Provision
House Passes School Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Thursday passed the $21.3-billion education bill containing the strongest antibusing provision ever approved by Congress.

The bill, which authorizes funds for a wide variety of programs ranging from elementary school to graduate school, was sent to President Nixon by a vote of 218 to 180.

Its busing provision would halt for 18 months any school desegregation ordered by the federal courts until all appeals have been exhausted.

An unusual coalition formed by members who objected to any limitations on the courts in their efforts to desegregate the schools and those who wanted more than the bill would provide opposed the bill.

Its backers tried to soft-pedal the busing issue and stressed the educational benefits of the bill in bidding for support.

The major educational provisions would:

—Launch a new program of direct federal aid to colleges and universities that could provide them with as much as $1 billion a year.

—Entitle every college student to a grant of $1,400 a year, minus what his parents could afford to contribute toward his education.

—Authorize $1 billion a year to help elementary and secondary schools desegregate.

—Establish a National Institute of Education to bolster research into all aspects of the learning process.

Reach Accord
On Rural Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate-House conferees, tossing out a revenue-sharing plan, agreed Thursday on a multimillion-dollar program to rebuild rural America and thus lure people out of crowded cities.

A congressional conference committee settled on terms of a compromise that would authorize about $500 million a year in grant funds and extensively expand loan authority for intensive rural-development activities.

A Senate-passed provision calling for a revenue-sharing method of financing programs with the states, with funding at some $500 million a year, was deleted by the Senate-House conferees in an attempt to get a bill that could clear Congress this year.

Senate Agriculture Committee Chairman Herman E. Talmadge, D-Ga., called the compromise "the most significant rural-development legislation ever to come out of the Congress."

The legislation covers rural communities of up to 10,000 persons, with industrial loans available for cities of up to 50,000.

Grants would be provided to improve conditions through such programs as pollution abatement and setting up industrial centers providing jobs for the unemployed.

Funding authorization ranges from $300 million a year for water-and waste-disposal projects—a $200-million annual boost in grants for such assistance compared with existing provisions—to grants of $75 million a year for fighting pollution in rural areas.

Furthermore, $50 million a year would be earmarked for aid to public groups for developing industrial parks and other community facilities.

The bill gives the Farmers Home Administration, for the first time, authority to make loans for small business and industrial loans in these programs of building industrial parks to spur creation of jobs.

Loans also would go for such things as building firehouses and community centers in rural areas, and authorization would be given to a pilot program of rural fire protection.

No 'New Tolerance'
For Cuban Leaders

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Organization of American States Thursday night rejected a Peruvian resolution to allow each member nation to establish the kind of relationship it desires with Cuba.

The vote by the OAS permanent council was 13 to 7 with three abstentions.

U.S. Ambassador Joseph J. Jova voted against the resolution, declaring it would be a mistake for the OAS to view Cuba's efforts to export revolution with a "new tolerance."

Under a 1964 OAS resolution, member nations are prohibited from maintaining diplomatic and trade relations with Cuba.

Application of the sanctions under the Peruvian resolution would have been left up to each individual member of the 23-nation community. Mexico and Chile have chosen to ignore the embargo.

Eleven Persons Hijack Czech
Airliner In Bid For Freedom

WEIDEN, Germany (AP) — Eleven persons bent on escape to the West hijacked a Czechoslovak airliner to West Germany Thursday, killing the pilot in the struggle to take over the plane. The injured copilot landed the aircraft safely just inside the West German border.

The seven men, three women and a child, all Czechoslovak nationals, asked for political asylum.

The chief prosecutor of Weiden said he would apply for arrest warrants against all members of the hijacking group except the child. Hijacking became a crime in West Germany last year.

The copilot suffered a broken nose in a cockpit struggle, but succeeded in landing the twin-engine Slov-Air turboprop plane on a small field 15 miles inside the West German border.

A third crew member also was injured in the struggle with the hijackers.

The plane, an L410, was on a regularly scheduled flight from Marianske Lazne, the former Marienbad, to Prague, with 14 passengers and three crewmen.

The International Civil Aviation Organization, based in Montreal, has two other hijacking pilot deaths on record.

Police gave this account of Thursday's hijacking:

Five minutes after takeoff, a member of the group—a 23-year-old student from Prague—forced his way into the cockpit, pressed a pistol against the pilot's neck, and ordered the plane to West Germany.

A crew member grappled with the gunman, other hijackers came to his aid, and in the struggle the gun went off. The pilot, Jan Micica, 52, and the father of three children, slumped dead over the controls.

The copilot, although wounded, gained control of the plane and landed it 40 miles short of the hijackers' intended destination of Nuernberg, site of a West German camp for political refugees.

An airfield official said that as soon as the plane came to a halt "the occupants threw out their baggage and jumped out of the plane . . . While some of the men and women moved toward our building, two young men ran in the other direction toward the woods."

Police reported taking two men into custody in a wood near the airfield. Neither was said to be armed at the time, but a pistol later was reported found near the scene.

The airfield official said the copilot and the her injured man were taken to a Weiden hospital for treatment.

The child, he said, was in a baby carriage and uninjured.

Kleindienst, Shultz
Confirmed By Senate

WASHINGTON (AP) — Amid clashing cries of politics and cover-up, the Senate confirmed by a 64-19 vote Thursday Richard G. Kleindienst's nomination as attorney general.

The nomination of the conservative Arizona lawyer to succeed John N. Mitchell in the Cabinet post was submitted by President Nixon on Feb. 15.

It became enmeshed in a controversy over the Justice Department's out-of-court settlement last year of three anti-trust cases against International Telephone & Telegraph Corp.

In the final debate before the vote, liberal Democrats contended an effort to get the full story on whether a political deal was involved in the settlement had been stymied.

But Republicans retorted that the Democrats were playing election-year politics and that no evidence had been produced of any improper conduct by Kleindienst.

Immediately after the vote, Kleindienst said he was "humbled and flattered" by the Senate action.

"I am deeply grateful for the opportunity now to go back to work as attorney general of the United States without the interruption and intervention of this kind of situation," he said.

Later, the Senate confirmed by 83 to 0 the nomination of another Cabinet member, George P. Shultz, to be secretary of the Treasury. There had been no organized opposition.

No Republicans voted against Kleindienst's confirmation, while the Democrats lined up 26 for the nomination and 19 against.

Of the Democratic presidential candidates in the Senate, only Sen. Henry M. Jackson of Washington voted for confirmation. The others either voted or were recorded in opposition.

The liberal Democrats who led the opposition had hoped to make a better showing. They had been estimating privately they could muster 25 votes against Kleindienst.

The Senate Judiciary Committee held 42 days of hearings investigating whether the settlement was linked to a pledge by ITT's Sheraton Hotel subsidiary to help San Diego meet the costs of a Republican National convention.

Kleindienst, who approved the settlement as deputy attorney general, swore to the committee that he had no knowledge of the convention contribution until months later.

The committee, in a majority report to the Senate, held the settlement was the result of arm's length negotiations and not the product of political influence.

Before Kleindienst's confirmation, Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., moved that the nomination be returned to the Judiciary Committee for additional hearings not to exceed 25 hours.

This was defeated by a 50-vote. The 22-day hearings went on over a period of months, tied with a 1916 when Louis Brandeis was nominated for Court.

Editorial Comment

Statesmanlike Approach

President Nixon is riding high these days, personally and politically. His two momentous trips, to China and the Soviet Union, were capped by the well received visit to Poland. Upon his return home the President gave a short, promising, but yet sobering report to a joint session of Congress.

This succession of events has cast Mr. Nixon in the role any incumbent desires: he appears to be above politics, working for the common good. While Senators McGovern and Humphrey battled each other in California, the President returned with hope and promise from his sojourns abroad. With this in mind it is interesting to see how Mr. Nixon's journeys and his report to Congress appear from a political viewpoint.

The report was filled with optimism. The President obviously was buoyed by his personal contact with Leonid I. Brezhnev. He saw great hope both in the signing of the SALT agreements and in the "agreement on principles" between the two superpowers. At the same time, contrary to his habit in the past, Mr. Nixon did not promise the world.

Rather, he constantly tempered his remarks with reminders of certain realities: the continuing and deep ideological differences between the two great powers, the fact that Vietnam was not settled, and finally, the evident truth that no agreements resulting from a four-day visit could possibly solve all the problems of the world.

In sum, the President's report represented a rather careful and diplomatic, statesmanlike presentation. But one may legitimately ask how this will stand up under the exigencies of the forthcoming campaign.

What will happen when Mr. Nixon gets out on the hustings? Will his calm, even-handed examination of issues and problems be continued? Or will the pressures of straining for electoral victory force him out of that stance?

One can hope that the attitude shown by the President during his two momentous journeys and immediately upon his return from Moscow will continue once he finds himself in the heat of the battle. This is not entirely up to him, of course; his Democratic opponent also will play a part in setting the tone of debate. As the incumbent, however, Mr. Nixon has a special responsibility to maintain the statesmanlike restraint that he has been demonstrating. This would be greatly in the public interest, opening the way to a thoroughgoing discussion of these vital matters in the context of the campaign.

Some 'Political Trial'!

Having been declared innocent of all charges brought against her, Angela Davis now is saying that "a fair trial would have been no trial at all." This is a variation on the "political trial" theme so often sounded by Miss Davis and her sympathizers ever since her arrest. They have steadfastly maintained—and are implying still, as Miss Davis' comment makes clear—that the whole thing was a frameup because the defendant is both black and an avowed Communist.

We do not accept that view. Though the proceedings had political overtones, what was principally at issue was the question whether the defendant's conduct made her guilty as an accessory to murder, kidnapping or conspiracy, or all three. In our judgment, failure to bring her to trial on the strength of evidence possibly connecting her with the fatal shootout at California's Marin county courthouse in August 1970 would not have been in the interests of justice.

Now justice has been done, and Miss Davis has been acquitted of all charges. This outcome is the fruit of proceedings in which skilled counsel for the defense fully exploited every right of due process. The trial was orderly, conducted in an atmosphere of judicial calm despite the underlying tensions.

We feel that in all essentials the trial, far from being "political" in the sense so stridently advanced by some of Miss Davis' supporters, was exemplary. In the end, the jury concluded that the circumstantial case offered by the prosecution failed to meet the legal requirement of proving guilt beyond a reasonable doubt. Miss Davis was consequently exonerated, and has gone free. Let those who claim that's a "political trial" make the most of it.

BERRY'S WORLD

© 1972 by NEA, Inc.

By STEWART HENSLEY
WASHINGTON (UPI) — The arms limitation treaty signed by President Nixon and Leonid Brezhnev is based on the realistic acknowledgment that in the nuclear age there simply is no place to hide. Its assumption is that true security cannot be achieved by continuing the costly arms race but only by a verified arrangement of mutual vulnerability which makes it suicidal for either of the superpowers to attack the other. Some will challenge this assumption and the debate is bound to be lively before the Senate acts.

According to U.S. disarmament director Gerard C. Smith, "the heart of the treaty" lies in the fact that each side binds itself not even to try to deploy enough defensive antiballistic missiles (ABMs) to defend its national territory or even a regional portion.

Stalemate Formalized
In effect, the treaty formalizes, with specific verification procedures, the "stalemate of nuclear terror" which has been the main deterrent to a third world war ever since the atomic genie was let out of the bottle.

Administration officials say that policing the agreement by "national means"—that is, by spy satellite and electronic measures—will provide better enforcement than on-ground inspection.

The ABM treaty probably will not come in for as much criticism as the accompanying "interim agreement" limiting some offensive nuclear weapons. This agreement will leave Russia, at the end of five years, with more nuclear armed submarines and intercontinental ballistic missiles than the United States. However, the United States will have more warheads because it puts several on each missile.

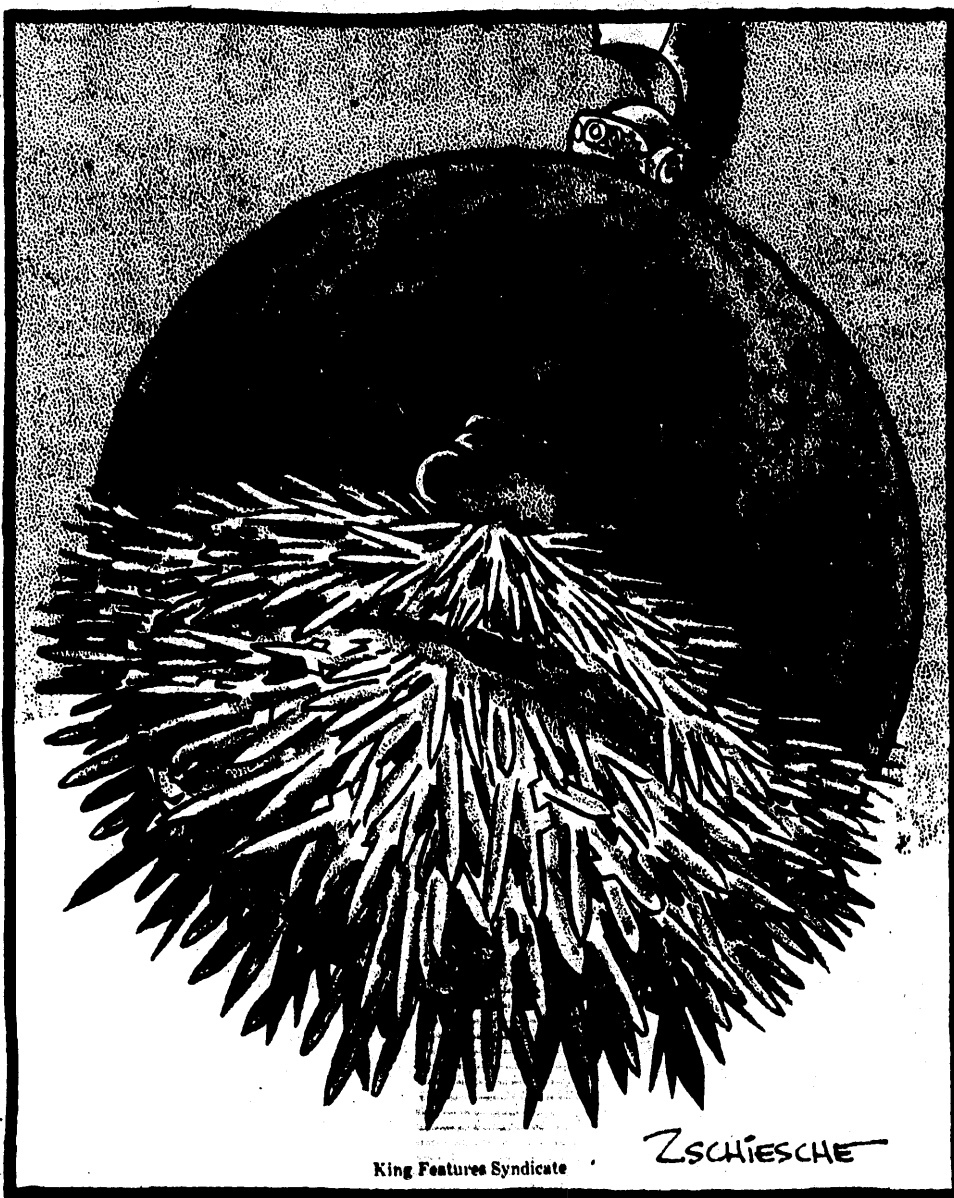

Small Comfort
Nevertheless, U.S. inferiority in numbers of subs and missiles is the sort of thing opposition congressmen can get their teeth into—and undoubtedly will.

Under the treaty, each side can have no more than 200 ABMs, of which 100 would be around Washington and Moscow and another 100 around an ICBM complex at least 780 miles from each capital. Radar guidance systems will be limited.

If a country has only enough ABMs to save its capital and its politicians and to launch from one site a final salute of ICBMs to Armageddon, it will matter little when the remainder of the land is devastated and its population dead.

President Nixon's adviser, Henry A. Kissinger, said in Moscow the pact represented a departure from the "simplistic notions" of overkill of the early 1960s.

Another official said it this way: "If I should happen to die in a holocaust, I doubt that I should draw much comfort from the fact that the enemy did not have enough nuclear power to kill me three or four more times."

Big Cost Is Home Front, Not War

By BRUCE BROSSAT
WASHINGTON (NEA) — For far too long, loose talk has marred the public debate over how much money can and should be spent for the nation's rising burden of pressing social needs.

It is not different here today 1972 Democratic presidential as leading contenders for the nomination battle in the climactic California primary. The air is thick with promises of "reordered priorities," of rebuilding the cities, ending poverty, providing jobs for all, better schools, more Social Security, fuller health care, better housing, welfare reform, day care for children of working mothers, etc.

As these things roll off the tongues of Sens. George McGovern and Hubert Humphrey, top Democratic rivals, the steady listener often gets the idea that very little has been spent for social programs—and that there is almost no limit to what we could spend if we would just end the "costly" Vietnam war and get with it at home.

Well, another good look at the newly published treasure trove, the Brookings Institution's annual study of the proposed federal budget, will give us some sobering insights into this facile oratory.

To begin, let's note that 10 years ago civilian programs consumed 47 per cent of federal expenditures, but in President Nixon's budget for fiscal 1973 they are expected to consume 68 per cent.

Some social programs are of reasonable long standing—Social Security, basic welfare, veterans' benefits. Ten years ago they cost $28.4 billion a year. In the new budget they will come to $74.9 billion.

The year 1965 was a watershed period, under a host of new programs when the "great society" heading were launched. These included Medicare and Medicaid, various categories of aid to education, manpower training, anti-poverty projects, housing subsidies, health aids. A decade back, outlays in these general fields totaled no more than $1.7 billion yearly. In fiscal 1973, they should reach $35.7 billion.

Put the categories together. In the 10-year span, these outlays have risen $30.1 billion a year to a probable $110.6 billion. That's not exactly "starvation for social programs," as a McGovern aide once glibly asserted was the case up to now.

Now, as to this business of huge savings from ending our participation in the Vietnam war, Brookings takes care of that:

"The war is no longer a significant budgetary factor; at most it may absorb 5 per cent of the 1973 defense budget. Nor is it a source of significant savings in the future. The peace dividend has virtually been paid."

Brookings puts at $3.5 billion the "incremental cost" of the war—meaning that cost above what the defense establishment would spend in fiscal 1973 if there were no war. Roughly $2.5 billion of that sum goes not for direct United States war outlay, but for aid to South Vietnam, Cambodia, and Thailand. Some of this might go on a good while.

As noted in an earlier report, most of the savings from our heavy withdrawals from Vietnam have already been soaked up by steeply rising defense manpower costs due to higher pay scales.

All the new programs our 1972 politicians promise so fervently on the campaign stump—including property tax relief, revenue-sharing and cleaning up the welfare mess—are incredible costly. And no public utterance, not even McGovern's sober tax reform and defense cut proposals, is telling us with hard realism where that money can come from unless we take on still bigger tax loads.

Ann Landers:

Lovemaking Should Be Private

Dear Ann Landers: Our 16-year-old daughter and her 17-year-old boyfriend can't seem to keep their hands off each other. She is forever running her fingers through his hair, petting him, smoothing his sideburns and giving his hand a squeeze. They often sit with their arms around one another—or she sits on his lap. He kisses the palms of her hands or her neck—all this in front of anybody: neighbors, friends, parents, grandparents.

Both my husband and I have told them such behavior is not appropriate. They tell us we are old-fashioned, that they are not ashamed of their feelings and love is beautiful.

Do you agree with them? They said you would. I'm not so sure.—Her Parents
Dear Parents: I agree that love is beautiful, but what you describe isn't love. Pawing, massaging and smooching in the presence of others puts a cheap connotation on something that should be precious and private.

Dear Ann Landers: My sister-in-law and I are close friends. We have always been fond of each other and now that we live in a duplex we spend a lot of time together. Our husbands are good buddies, too, so it makes a nice foursome.

The problem is that we've gotten into a habit of stuffing ourselves with rich food just for laughs. For example, last week we made a triple batch of peanut butter cookies and we ate every last one. Saturday afternoon we baked a lemon pie, ate the WHOLE thing and laughed ourselves sick. Last night we devoured a bowl of raw cookie dough (it was delicious), two 12-ounce servings of chocolate pudding, and then we polished off the leftover roast beef.

We aren't fat yet—just about 20 pounds overweight. But at the rate we're going we'll be as big as a couple of houses. Any suggestions?—Any Food Goes

Dear A.F.: Interesting that you don't consider 20 pounds overweight "fat." How many pounds of excess baggage constitutes "fat" to your way of thinking? Thirty? Forty? Fifty? If you don't get some counseling you'll eventually be up there. Your eating habits are not normal.

May I also suggest that you two vacuum cleaners with teeth get busy with some projects that will take you out of the kitchen? You girls have too much spare time.

Dear Ann Landers: I am 40, the father of four nice children. I am writing about my mother-in-law. Her husband died two years ago and she still cries and carries on like the funeral was yesterday.

I liked my father-in-law a lot. He was a good guy, but I must say he was hen-pecked like nobody I ever saw in my life. His wife treated him as if he was a moron. She wouldn't let him open his mouth. She corrected his English and finished his sentences. She wouldn't even allow him to drive when she was in the car. This might be a terrible thing to say but when he died my first thought was, "The poor guy is free—at last."

I think the reason my mother-in-law feels so awful is because she's ashamed of the way she treated him. And since I am doing a little amateur psychology I should confess the reason I am writing this letter is because my wife is getting more like her mother every day. What I am trying to say is I'd rather have a FAIR deal while I am still living than a BIG deal after I am gone. Please print this.—Flowers Now
Dear Flowers: Thanks for unloading. I'll bet you feel better already.

FRIDAY, JUNE 9—Born today, you have been gifted with an exceedingly quick mind—and because of that you must always be on guard against impulsive action, for you are inclined to move physically as speedily as you do mentally. On the surface you appear to be a happy-go-lucky kind of person with few cares. Underneath you are completely different, being given to worry, to extraordinarily deep and lasting emotional responses, and to intense

On the other hand, you are completely unselfish and ask from those who are the recipients of all your effort and strength very little in return—only, in fact, that they remain loyal to you so long as you prove worthy of that loyalty. Naturally, there are times when you are woefully shortchanged.

MEMORIAL RITES IN ROODHOUSE

At the June 6th meeting of the Christian Fellowship of the Disciples of Christ (Christian) church in Roodhouse a very impressive memorial service was held.

The service was conducted by Mrs. Wayne Spencer. Candles were lighted in memory of three life-long members of the church who passed away during the last year. They were Mrs. Mabel Thompson, Mrs. Lyndell Rhodes and Mrs. Margaret Jessie Short.

The group will not meet until September.

The beluga sturgeon, source of the prized Russian caviar, reaches a length of 13 feet and may weigh up to a ton.

300 WEST COLLEGE JACKSONVILLE TEL. 245-2123

A Jacksonville couple, Mr. and Mrs. Walter L. (Jack) Watkins, will be celebrating their silver (25th) wedding anniversary this coming Sunday, June 11th. Open house will be held 2 to 4 p.m. at the residence, 250 East Dunlap street. Friends and relatives are cordially invited to call.

Mary Margaret Hayden and Walter L. Watkins were united in marriage at the rectory of Our Saviour's church June 14, 1947 by the Rev. Raymond Franzen. Marjorie Casey and the late Robert K. Watkins were their attendants. Mrs. Watkins is the daughter of the late William T. (Mickey) Hayden and Mrs. Margaret Hayden of Jacksonville and Mr. Watkins the son of the late Walter L. and Cloveniah Watkins.

Mr. and Mrs. Watkins are parents of four children, Mrs. Gordy (Patsy Jo) Fish of Murrayville; Mrs. George (Julia) Young, Ted and Peggy of Jacksonville. There are three granddaughters, Heather Young, Cassi and Corey Watkins.

Behymer-Elbus nuptials June 11 at Hersman

MT. STERLING — Miss Michele Elbus of Mt. Sterling and Steve Behymer of Hersman will be married Saturday evening, June 11th, at the Hersman Presbyterian church.

The bride-elect is the daughter of Mrs. Betty Elbus and of Fred J. Elbus, both of Mt. Sterling. Mr. Behymer is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Orville Behymer of Hersman.

MRS. GEO. CLARK MENTIONED IN BINDERY FEATURE

A feature story, with pictures in the June 5th Chicago Tribune makes reference to a Jacksonville resident, Mrs. George (Rhoda Hertzburg) Clark, 1101 West State street. The interesting copy refers to the Monastery Hill Bindery in Chicago. The firm was founded by the Hertzburg family which immigrated to Chicago in the mid 1800's. Mrs. Clark, a descendant of the founder, buys and sells rare books for Monastery Hill. The firm "does anything at all in leather," from paneling a room, cover entire tables, repair a desk top, bind books from the common paperback to exclusive rare and old editions. Monastery Hill has a mailing list of rare books available and its own collection, for exhibit only. This includes choice volumes of the history of Chicago (1886) with delicate handpainting of Fort Dearborn on the fore edge, visible only when pages are fanned.

Two Accidents And Theft On Square Reported

Two accidents and a reported attempted robbery were on the local police records Thursday morning. The first was an accident at 2:30 a.m. in the 600 block of South Main street. A car driven by Larry E. Whitaker, 20, of 1622 Hardin avenue, struck the rear of a parked car, owned by Dale W. Smithers of 607 South Main street. The Whitaker vehicle was heavily damaged. The driver, who received minor injuries, was ticketed for wrong lane usage.

Rose W. Thomas, 24, who listed both White Hall and Jacksonville as his residences, claimed to have been a victim of a forcible robbery when two subjects relieved him of his billfold and some change. This incident happened on the Public Square and Thomas made his way to an all night restaurant and summoned police. The authorities took him to Passavant for treatment of slight injuries.

At 8:35 a.m. Thursday two cars collided on South Westgate. A vehicle driven by Frank N. Harris, 32, of 125 Pine street, was pulling from the drive at the IGA store and attempting to enter a private drive directly across the street. The Harris car was struck by an automobile driven by Hazel Burton of Quincy. The Burton car had just entered Westgate from Morton avenue. Harris was ticketed for failure to yield.

ROODHOUSE — A twelve-thirty luncheon held Tuesday afternoon at the Christian Church by the CWF was the closing meeting of the season. Giving the invocation was Bessie Rees. Eighteen women were present.

Following the luncheon, installation of the new officers was beautifully conducted by Ardath Short. Seated were president, Spencer.

Blessing For Manville

Editor's Note — The plant has been the life blood of the town. Its product has even given the name to the year's big football game—the Asbestos Bowl. But besides a livelihood the plant may have been producing something else for the workers in Manville, N.J.—death.

By G.G. LABELLE
Associated Press Writer

MANVILLE, N.J. (AP) — Asbestos is the life of this small New Jersey boro, and opinion is widely divided on whether it will kill the town economically—or literally.

The boro contains the world's largest asbestos processing plant, operated by Johns-Manville Corp. It took its name from the plant and continues to take much of its livelihood from it.

A visit to Manville any Thursday shows the plant's importance to the boro. Thursday is payday at J-M, and it's the day when shopping centers and bars are their most crowded and traffic on Main Street gets as tied up as it ever does.

The plant is more than just Manville's economic center, too. The boro was incorporated in 1929, 20 years after the plant's founding, and grew up around Johns-Manville.

The boro's two volunteer fire houses were built with materials contributed by J-M, and the Manville High School football team practices on a field that was once the plant's dump. The team's big game of the season is the Asbestos Bowl.

Asbestos has always been a major factor in Manville's life, but within the last few years it has become apparent asbestos may have brought more than money to the boro. It also may have brought death.

Since 1963, 62 of the boro's 15,000 residents have died of mesothelioma, a rare and incurable cancer apparently caused by asbestos fibres. Its rate among the general population is one case in 10,000 persons.

In addition, an unusual number of residents have died of lung cancer, which may be caused by breathing asbestos fibres, and as many as 4,000 persons here may be afflicted with asbestosis, another lung disease caused by breathing the fibres.

Dr. Maxwell Borow, a surgeon from nearby Bound Brook who has studied the diseases, gave the estimate of 4,000 asbestosis victims. But he said it's impossible to tell exactly how many in the boro are suffering from the disease or how many may get it.

The difficulty, he explained, is that asbestosis related diseases take about 20 years to develop and that the victims are not only plant workers. He said before federal controls were applied to asbestos dust at the plant, the dust blew throughout areas of the boro.

Two of the victims of mesothelioma had never worked in the plant, he noted. One was a woman who played on an asbestos dump as a child and another was a woman who was married to an asbestos worker and regularly washed his work clothes.

Another problem, Borow said, is that no one knows what level of exposure causes the diseases. Two of the mesothelioma victims had worked for the plant for short periods—one for nine months, the other for 18 months—about 20 years ago.

Borow said once asbestos gets into the lungs it continues to tear at them for a lifetime. Mesothelioma strikes its victims at about age 55 and asbestosis hits at about age 65, he said.

He described mesothelioma as a tumor in the lining of the stomach or lungs. As the tumor grows it compresses the organs and causes the victim to waste away and die within 18 months. Asbestosis, he said, results in shortness of breath and lassitude. It can lead to lung cancer or heart attack.

Borow believes that the number of asbestosis cases will decline because of the federal limits put on asbestos dust in the plant. But a dispute over tightening the federal controls now threatens Manville's economic life.

Local 800 of the United Papermakers and Paperworkers Union is demanding the level be cut from five to two asbestos fibres per cubic centimeter, and Johns-Manville has said it will close down its asbestos operations should the level be cut.

The loss of the asbestos operation would mean 800 of the plant's 2,000 workers would lose their jobs, and Manville would lose some $10 million in annual payroll. Whether the economic or health threat has hit the boro hardest depends on whom you talk to.

Mayor Joseph Paterno, who is also a foreman at the J-M plant, feels the town fears the economic threat most. But officials of the Paperworkers Union have threatened to close the J-M plant if the level is not lowered. "The threat hasn't altered the union's position at all," said Robert Klinger, the local's vice president.

Klinger and Marshal Smith, the local's international representative, traced the long fight for recognition of the health problem. Smith said it was in the late 1950's that union officials saw "something was wrong."

But it was only last year that federal controls were applied to asbestos dust. Mayor Paterno feels the problem occurred years ago before asbestos dust levels were controlled and now no longer exists. "Right now the people think this is a bum rap on the municipality," he said.

He pointed to the rows of small, neat houses with well-kept lawns and asked, "Does this look like a dying town?"

Rep. Henry Helstoski, D-N.J., has agreed to introduce legislation to give federal compensation to victims of asbestos diseases and to give federal aid to J-M should it be forced to upgrade its plant to meet new standards.

The mayor also feels federal money should be given for research, but he says until the research is completed the level of asbestos fibres per cubic centimeter should remain at its present level.

Borow feels that level may not be strict enough. He believes tight controls should be applied to the material used in many homes, building materials and in brake linings. Borow said others who work with the material may also be exposed to the diseases.

He also said the problem is not unique to Manville. A high incidence of mesothelioma has also cropped up in asbestos mining areas in South Africa and Canada and in England's asbestos plants.

Exposure in both asbestos plants and in asbestos using industries is at issue in the dispute over controls, since there also is a proposal that products containing more than five asbestos fibres per cubic centimeter be labeled as harmful.

Johns-Manville officials have argued the labeling would be inappropriate and that the dust level demanded by the union is "extreme" and "unsubstantiated" by scientific evidence. They say it would not be economically feasible for the company to operate at the level.

The company admits it may not have always acted with the utmost enlightenment in regard to asbestos health hazards, but says in the last five years it has spent $5 million on improving ways of reducing exposure to asbestos dust in the Manville plant.

Union officials agree, as do government agencies, that J-M is now relatively progressive in its use of environmental control methods. But the union says the lower dust level is needed to protect the workers.

MISS MARGARET HOPPER receives a plaque Tuesday from Dale DeFrates, president of the Jefferson School PTA, honoring her for her 39 years as a physical education teacher at the school. Miss Helen Baldwin, Jefferson principal, looks on at right. Miss Hopper, who was the school's first physical education teacher in 1933, estimated that she had trained over 100 student teachers. She plans to travel during her retirement years. She will remain a Jacksonville resident.

Feasibility Of Killer Satellite System Studied

By HOWARD BENEDICT
AP Aerospace Writer
CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — The Defense Department has decided to study the feasibility of a killer satellite system capable of intercepting, inspecting and destroying hostile space vehicles. The Soviet Union already has demonstrated this capability.

The Air Force space and missile systems organization in Los Angeles asked industry on May 26 to submit proposals on the system. At least three companies are expected to be selected to conduct competitive studies.

If defense officials decide on the basis of the studies to develop a satellite destroyer, it is believed a system testing could start next year, aiming for a test launch in 1975 or 1976. If interceptor satellites are built, they would be able to fly alongside an alien spacecraft, determine its assignment and, if necessary, disable or destroy it.

Destruction could be effected by some sort of a "death ray," perhaps a laser beam; by signals that would disrupt the payload's electronics, or by blowing up the American satellite, destroying both payloads.

Satellite explosion is the technique used by the Russians. Since 1968, the Soviets have successfully demonstrated their spacecraft killer system at least seven times, according to U.S. sources.

These sources say the successful tests involved 12 separate launches of Cosmos satellites. Five were target satellites and seven were pursuit payloads that flew near their quarry. After an inspection, five of the interceptors blew apart on a low earth orbit and that it can be called in on an earth target in less than one global pass.

But if it were used, the action would be a violation of a U.N. treaty prohibiting the placing of nuclear weapons in space. In 1960, the Defense Department began developing a satellite interceptor under Project Saint. This was abandoned in 1962 for financial and technical reasons. Instead, the United States developed a land based antisatellite system at Johnson Island in the Pacific.

The system still is in operation, but the rockets are obsolete by today's standards and they would be relatively ineffective against today's highly maneuverable satellites.

Safety at the zoo
NEW YORK (UPI)—When visiting zoos do not feed the animals if it is prohibited. Do not reach into a cage or allow a child to reach into a cage or other space confining an animal, if it is prohibited. When feeding of animals is permissible, dole out only victuals approved for feeding to that animal. Following the rules is one way of protecting yourself, your children and doing the correct thing by the animals.

Sun Sense
CHICAGO (UPI)—When following summer's sun, take it easy—if you're concerned about your skin. Dermatologists recommend against boiling yourself the first time out. The best course: expose yourself gradually to the sun to avoid a painful sunburn. Light-skinned, blue-eyed persons and red heads ought to be especially careful.

Makes Counterfeiting Hazardous

By LEROY POPE
UPI Business Writer
NEW YORK (UPI)—The more sophisticated counterfeiters of Uncle Sam's currency are finding their trade more hazardous because of a new system called Money Scan.

Money Scan is the invention of William Cooper, president of Spectronics Corp. of New York. It looks like a refinement of the familiar black light scanners used by banks to detect tampering in checks, but it's more sophisticated.

The complete system appears nearly foolproof. Federal Reserve banks that have tested it say it has made no mistakes so far. All the bills it labeled as phonies were bad and it has yet to brand a genuine bill counterfeit.

"But I'm too wary to say that any system is permanently foolproof," Cooper said. "The professional counterfeiters are smart."

For example, they have learned to bleach the printing off $1 bills printed on genuine Treasury paper and reprint the bills in higher denominations.

Two Units

The system consists of two units: A light viewer that sells for about $55 and an electronic tester that sells for $450. The light viewer depends for its efficacy on the fact that no photochemicals are used in the manufacture of genuine Treasury paper. All other papers of comparable grade and feel contain photochemicals. Even genuine currency can contain photochemicals if the bills happen to have been laundered or have come in contact with chemicals in some other way.

Under the light viewer, any bill that shows bluish white becomes suspect. The bank teller or the retail cashier puts it aside and demands that the person tendering it produce another bill or else initials the suspect bill for test.

The electronic tester instantaneously tests the bill for genuineness of the paper, the ink and the secret encoding put on it by the Federal Bureau of Engraving. Up to now, the electronic tester has proved infallible.

Spectronics has sold several thousand of the light viewers and many of the electronic testers. The Federal Reserve Banks, many retailers and New York's Offtrack Betting Corp. are among the buyers who say they have used the system with great success.

Cooper said the need for such a system became acute with the development of high quality offset printing and precision color photocopy machines.

These developments, which are readily available to the counterfeiter, mean he no longer must make intricate engraved steel plates by hand to print good counterfeits. It also means that intricacy of design no longer is any protection to currency.

"The protection lies in the paper, the ink and the secret coding," he said. "These, even the most sophisticated counterfeiter cannot duplicate exactly."

Another protective value of the Money Scan system is psychological. Professional passers of bad money soon learn which banks and stores use Money Scan and avoid them.

Current Queen Of TV Commercials

Dedicated To Becoming Film Star

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—JoAnna Cameron's name may be unknown to you, but her face should be familiar if you watch television.

JoAnna is current queen of the commercials. Her youth and beauty are displayed for a variety of cosmetics products. She also promotes travel for a couple of airlines.

You can pick her out because she's not one of the dowdy looking frumps ad agencies frequently believe represent the average housewife.

As is the case with many gorgeous young things in Hollywood, JoAnna is dedicated to becoming a movie star. Thus far she's appeared only in guest shots on television shows.

But she has some interesting observations about stardom.

Audiences Detect Acting

"I don't believe anyone ever really learns to act," she said. "You can learn camera techniques, but you project yourself, not a character."

"Today's audiences go for honesty and reality. They can detect it immediately when you're 'acting.' It turns them off."

JoAnna, in fact, is always acting at being herself. The results are gratifying. She flirts a little bit and dresses to enhance her figure which defies normal description. Suffice it to say every girl should be so lucky.

"Lately you hear girls say they are sacrificing everything to become great actresses," the brunette newcomer said. "I think people go to see stars doing what they do best. It's not the story so much as it is an interesting individual on the screen."

She's Too Young

JoAnna is too young to remember the giant stars who maintained their popularity for many years. But she sees them on television's late shows and understands their longevity.

"I'm not negative toward people who do act," she said. "The public sees so much television and so many movies they can tell if you're putting them on. And poor acting is putting people on."

"If you look at the past 10 years you'll see there haven't been very many great beauties like Elizabeth Taylor in pictures. And what ever happened to the Errol Flynns? You know, macho."

Likes Handsome Men

JoAnna is not all that interested in seeing Elliott Gould or Dustin Hoffman suffer his way through psychological agony. She likes handsome men of action with an abundance of confidence in themselves.

"I'd like to see film have as much influence on youngsters as music does," she said. "But I'm sure the outcome would be different. Music is equated with the drug culture."

"But movies are total creativity and they touch all the senses."

What little "acting" experience JoAnna has picked up has been on commercials which she believes is as good an education as a prospective actress can get.

"Commercials are great," she concluded. "Any young girl in Hollywood lives from day to day. I'm fortunate because the commercials give me a little independence. That's good for an actress, too."

HIGH RISERS well-heeled boots for men by Thom McAn

Are you ready for this one? High-heeled shoes for men? Not exactly high, maybe... but a bit higher than before. Because that's where fashion's at today. It's the kind of look that goes with the kind of looks you're wearing. Like flare-leg slacks and shaped suits and body shirts. A sophisticated shoe with a 2" heel kind of puts it all together. And with Thom McAn, you don't have to be a millionaire to be well-heeled, because they're only $19.99. High-heeled shoes for men. When you're ready for them.

Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. J.W. Fulbright, D-Ark., Chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, says a mutual change in attitude is the most important factor in the U.S.-Soviet arms limitation agreements.

The agreements, he said in an interview with The Associated Press, won't reduce U.S. defense spending unless Congress has "enough sense" to reject an antiballistic missile (ABM) site for Washington and administration plans to beef up other weapons systems.

Q. Senator Fulbright, what do you think of the Moscow arms agreements?

A. I think they are indicative of the change of attitude on the part of the government of the United States—a change away from the pursuit of ideological warfare which began in the initiation of the Truman Doctrine and has continued up to today.

They have somewhat the same significance as the visit to Peking; I mean, a change of attitude toward one of the two major Communist countries. And that's very significant. That's the first and most important thing.

The agreement itself—take the ABM: I'm glad they're limiting it to two, although I would hope that they do not build two. I mean I hope that they would not proceed to build one around Washington. There is one question that's raised: By setting that two, it seems to be an undertaking to at least build two, which means another waste of another $10 billion or $15 billion.

Q. Do you believe that the United States position would not be weakened if we did not build an antiballistic missile site around Washington?

A. I think we'd be better off if we didn't have any at all; if nobody had any. I would have preferred, and so told this administration and the previous administration, that we would like to have a "no-ABM" agreement. We had understood at one time—this was just general talk among members of the Senate—that if we could agree to have none that the Russians would agree to dismantle the only one they have, which is around Moscow.

The extensive hearings that we held some time ago indicated that it (Moscow's) was a very primitive one and that even the Russians had no confidence in it. It would have saved a great deal of money and would have improved the relationship and the security of both countries if they didn't try to build an ABM system. At that time, at least, the evidence of the hearings was that the state of the art was such that it was very unreliable, probably useless and no feasible.

Q. You mentioned that the agreement indicates a change in attitude by the United States. Does it also reflect a change in attitude on the part of Russia?

A. Oh, yes, I think so. I think it's a mutual recognition that the policy of an arms race and of continuing an attitude of antagonism and rivalry that leads to confrontation in the Middle East and the Far East is not in the interest of either country. It's a mutual change in attitude and I think it's a significant one, and a very important one.

Q. Would you oppose the ABM agreement?

A. Well, I don't oppose it because it's a part of this change in attitude. I shall approve it personally. I only wish it had been done... We would have been equally secure with neither having any. But I would rather have two than 12.

Q. Suppose Congress does not authorize the Washington ABM site? The treaty does not require us to build it.

A. No, but the psychology of setting these limits tends to people to say we've got to do it. As far as I know there is no evidence the Russians are building any second site. We've had many hearings with the CIA and other people, and the only one they have ever identified that the Russians are building—and it isn't complete—is the one around Moscow.

Q. Are you concerned that the agreement on offensive weapons builds in a superiority for the Soviet Union?

A. I don't think it does. I don't agree with Sen. Jackson (Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash.), if that's the one you have in mind. He's the most outspoken one, and I think he's quite wrong. I think Senator Jackson's views on what constitutes security of a country and what constitutes a strong United States is quite wrong.

Q. Is it your feeling that each side has sufficient deterrent power?

A. More than sufficient. Both sides have more than enough to cause irreparable harm to the other. We have 1,054 Minuteman and they have 1,600 approximately. But this is only part of it. You've got your submarines and your tactical nuclear (weapons) deliverable by airplanes, etc. You put them all together and it's enough to de-

Q. What is the economic advantage to this treaty?

A. That's a very questionable thing that remains to be seen. Because immediately, almost coinciding with the announcement of the agreements, Secretary (of Defense Melvin R.) Laird announces a new program of what he calls Trident, a new name for the ULMS (Underwater Longrange Missile System). This is an enormously expensive new weapons system. So if because they make this (agreement), they're going to compensate by increasing the quality, the destructiveness, the size, the power of other weapons, unless we have unusual and unprecedented common sense it could prove to be more expensive...

The arms agreement is significant, not economically, necessarily.

But it's significant as one of the indications that these two countries are beginning to travel a new road toward at least a peaceful co-existence and possibly—it's not unthinkable although it's not very probable in the immediate future—a degree of cooperation.

I think of those little things that weren't given much attention, such as the agreements on cooperation in space, medicine, cultural activities. They say "cooperation." They say "mutual activities," "common undertakings" in space. This is very significant. The way to build better relations is to do things together. This is what I hope for. This is why I think the overall exercise is very good...

The psychology I'm afraid will develop is: because we've got this agreement on ABM and on comparable missiles, we've got to go forward on Trident. If we do we will not save any money at all. It's the long-range submarine that will be twice as large as the Polaris and will have much larger missiles carrying 17 independent MIRVs. It's huge. It costs over a billion dollars each. Now under the agreement on submarines, I think they can substitute—this is some of the details that will come up in the agreements that are to be submitted to the Congress... But I assume that Mr. Laird knew what he was talking about in that the Trident can be substituted for the "antiquated" Polaris.

Q. Do you know of any private understandings that were reached in connection with these agreements?

A. I only know what's been reported in the papers that the specific agreements, as distinguished from the treaty that deals with strategic weapons, will be submitted to the Congress at the time of the treaties being considered. While they haven't yet been made public, they're not intended to remain secret.

Q. Will Congress have to approve both the agreement and the treaty?

A. Yes, it is my understanding they will. The treaty will be approved by the Senate under the treaty clause. The agreements with regard to numbers and all the details will be in the form of an agreement which will be approved by the Congress as a whole.

Q. What is your feeling of the sense of the Foreign Relations Committee in action on the ABM treaty?

A. I would think that the majority of the Foreign Relations Committee would very likely approve it.

Q. When do you expect to get started?

A. We can't determine that until they're submitted... Just as a footnote, one thing I was a little disappointed in there was almost no mention, except the very last day, on the part of the communicate or any-

Bear Facts

NEW YORK (UPI)—In the dense woods, including those set aside for national parks, figure you're not apt to meet any terribly friendly bears. Safety authorities recommend that for self-interest, visitors to bear turf refrain from feeding or irritating the animals.

When camping in bear country, don't toss garbage into a heap. Follow rules set up for disposal of same so the hungry bears don't make their way into your campground during the day or night, drawn to the scene by the scent of edibles. Some bears kill humans in their way—provoked by the humans or tempted by carelessly-strewn garbage. To scare bears, bang pots and pans together.

Water Safety

CHICAGO (UPI)—When non-swimmers among the toddlers or grown-up set use water wings or other inflatables to help keep them afloat in a pool, lake, or sea, remember this:

The inflated floating aid may suddenly lose air. If the user supported by the device cannot swim, there is a good chance he will sink—and maybe drown. The rule to follow here, for safety's sake: don't let anyone using these devices depend on them in water that will be over their heads. Make—sure such users stay in the shallow water.

Q. What other countries or the United Nations.

Q. What about other countries? Do you anticipate any adverse reaction?

A. No, I don't think so, because the others feel so helpless compared to these two great giants that I think most know nothing about that.

Wants Her Coat Hangers Well-Shaped, Smooth

By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY — Hopefully the right manufacturer will see this — my Pet Peeve. I do wish plastic coat hangers were made without all those slots and curlicues as it is almost impossible to remove a garment from them without catching some part of it. I have tried covering these annoying areas with masking tape, have tried breaking them off but nothing has really solved the problem. We need a well shaped SMOOTH plastic hanger. — ALMA

After this peroration Z proceeded to enter dummy for a successful club finesse. Then he cashed the hearts and clubs to come down to a final problem of locating the queen of spades.

By this time Z had a good enough count to know that East has started with five spades. This made the odds that he would hold the queen a substantial five to two and Z picked it up to make six no-trump and a top score instead of a safe three no-trump for a bottom score.

THE FELLOW STRIKING THE POSE of comic book hero Captain Marvel is really Captain Marvel. Captain William Marvel of the U.S. Air Force to be exact. It had to happen. Marvel, an astronautical engineer for the Air Force Space and Missile Systems Organization, graduated from the Air Force Academy and worked his way to the inevitable—the rank of Captain. He received news of his promotion June 4 and Tuesday he donned the comic costume, designed by stewardess friends Cathy Sherlock (L) and Dori Grotelueschen, and wore it to work. "All my life I knew this would happen," sighed Marvel. UPI Photo

ALTON—A policeman guards firemen extinguishing a firebombing blaze at Theo's Tuneup Service in Alton late Wednesday night. Two private automobiles were reportedly struck by bullets and several incidents of firebombing were reported for the second straight night in the city. Police said the incidents resulted from the arrest of a black youth for curfew violation. (UPI Telephoto)

Blacks, Police Clash In Alton Uproar

ALTON, Ill. (AP) — The mayor of this Missouri border city near St. Louis said Thursday some members of the black community have threatened that the city could "go up in flames" if a police lieutenant is not suspended from the force.

Mayor Paul Linz said the threat, as well as threats to himself personally, his home and his family, came from a group of about 40 persons invited to attend a meeting in city hall between members of his staff and four black leaders.

The meeting was called in the wake of a second night of firebombing and sniping in Alton city streets. There have been no reported injuries.

The violence was touched off Tuesday night during a disturbance between blacks and patrolmen at an Alton police station and spread through the community.

Snipers and police exchanged gunfire Tuesday and Wednesday nights. Several buildings in the business district were heavily damaged by firebombs.

Linz said the group of blacks presented a series of demands at the meeting in an effort to resolve the conflict.

Among them, Linz said, was a demand for the suspension of Police Lt. Walter Conrad. Linz said the blacks blame Conrad for the police station disturbance.

"My personal position," said the mayor, "is that even though I may have the authority to suspend city employees temporarily, I will not act as sole judge, jury and executioner."

"I have urged them (blacks) to file the proper charges to the events they witnessed. I didn't witness anything. They can state the facts under oath at a Civil Service hearing and I have urged them to follow the proper procedure," the mayor added.

Linz said the black contingent at the meeting also demanded more black officers on the force and more black fire fighters as well as selected officers to patrol their community at selected hours.

The meeting was organized, Linz said, by four of the community's black leaders—Ald. Albert Charleston; Jimmy Wilson, director of the Middletown Neighborhood Center; Robert Northern, a representative of the Metro East Labor Council; and Pervis Smith, an Alton tavern owner.

After the meeting, Charleston commented: "We were concerned about the differences between the black community and the police and wanted to do something to make sure there was no repetition of the firebombing and shooting."

Linz said there has been no civil emergency declared and that no curfew beyond the one carried on the city books, which applies to young people, has been declared.

School

only set the ceilings for the program. The actual funds would have to be appropriated in separate legislation and could be considerably lower.

Secretary Elliot L. Richardson of Health, Education and Welfare said the bill is "a landmark in the history of higher education" although he said its anti-busing provisions are deficient.

Despite the massive aid authorized and the sweeping nature of the bill, almost all the debate centered on the busing provisions, which were added originally by the House in stronger form.

A compromise with the Senate all but nullified two of the amendments dealing with funds for busing and put a Jan. 1, 1974, deadline on the key provision blocking court orders while appeals are pending. The original House version would have made it permanent law.

Antibusing forces, who objected to the weakening effect of the compromise, led the fight to defeat the bill.

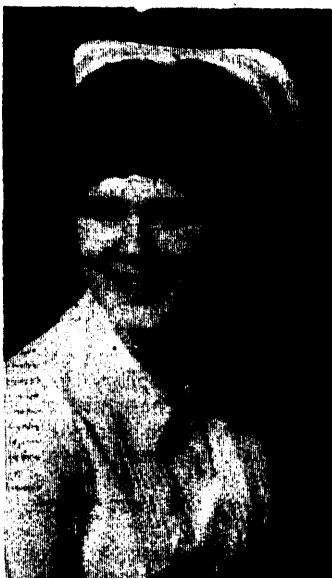

The vote split both parties sharply, 130 Democrats and 88 Republicans supporting the bill, and 104 Democrats and 76 Republicans voting against it.

House Republican leader Gerald R. Ford of Michigan, who wound up voting against the bill, has reported that President Nixon is also strongly opposed to the busing provision, but no threat of a veto was raised during the debate.

Nixon has proposed his own antibusing legislation, including a one-year moratorium on new busing orders and permanent guidelines for the courts to follow which would permit busing only as a temporary, last resort.

Enactment of the busing provisions in the education bill is expected to end congressional action on the touchy subject this year, leaving Nixon's proposals buried in the committee.

Earns Degree

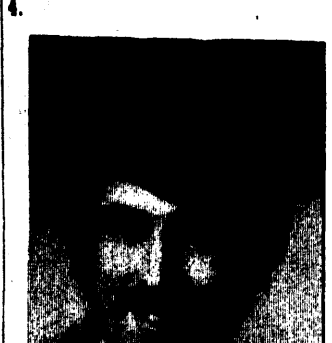

Karen Meline

A Jacksonville resident, Karen Meline, 803 Finley street, received her associate in arts degree from Lincoln Land Community College at Springfield on June 4th. Degrees were conferred by Robert H. Stephens, chairman of the board of trustees, before a capacity crowd at the Illinois Building in that city.

Miss Meline graduated from Jacksonville High School in 1969 and from District 117 Licensed Practical Nurse School in Jacksonville in 1971. She is employed as a licensed practical nurse at Charleston Community Hospital in Charleston. She will be continuing her education this fall at Eastern Illinois University where she is enrolled for sociology and psychology courses.

KENT MENG EARNS DOCTOR'S DEGREE ON OPTOMETRY

Kent Meng, son of Mr. and Mrs. William C. Meng, R.R.2, Greenfield, Illinois, received the degree of Doctor of Optometry at the 129th Convocation of Illinois College of Optometry June 4.

Kent Meng

Dr. Meng attended Illinois College, Jacksonville, Illinois, and Washington University, St. Louis, Missouri for his pre-optometry schooling before enrolling at Illinois College of Optometry. While attending ICO, Dr. Meng was a member of the Omega Delta Fraternity.

Dr. Meng plans to enter practice in the fall. His wife Loretta, a native of Cleveland Ohio who attended St. Xavier College in Chicago, Illinois, is a nurse at Mercy Hospital in Chicago.

The Illinois College of Optometry, founded in 1872, is one of the oldest and largest optometry colleges in the world. Its alumni number approximately fifty per cent of the practicing optometrists in the United States. Illinois College of Optometry has just completed new buildings which include teaching and laboratory facilities, extensive research areas and a large clinic.

Dies Thursday

A Cass county native, Steven E. Hobbs, 55, of Peoria died Thursday at Veteran's hospital in Iowa City, Iowa, where he had been a patient for eight days.

He was born in Chandler, Ill. June 8, 1917, son of Eugene and Hazel Griffin Hobbs. He was a World War II veteran.

He is survived by his wife, Beulah, four sons, Ross, Dean, Frank and Steven, and one daughter, Mrs. Donald (Linda) Horner, all of Peoria. His stepfather and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Burns of Chandler, Ill., also survive.

The body was brought to the Lintner - Buchanan Funeral Home in Chandler, Ill., where services will be at 2 p.m. Saturday with burial to be in Bethel cemetery, Mason county.

Friends may call at the funeral home from 7 to 9 Friday evening.

Stoney Stone, Once Resident, Dies Wednesday

A former Jacksonville resident, Florent J. (Stoney) Stone, 55, died unexpectedly Wednesday afternoon at his residence in Springfield.

He was born June 17, 1916 in Bridgeview, Iowa, son of Guy and Blanche Basham Stone. Mr. Stone was the owner of the Millstone Tavern here until he moved to Springfield six years ago.

Survivors include three sons, James I. of Denver, Colorado, Russell and James C., both of Jacksonville, one step-son, Jerry Hobson of Burbank, Calif., and one step-daughter, Margo Browning of LaSalle.

The body was brought to the Gillham - Buchanan Funeral Home. Further arrangements will be announced.

Central Park Sale Saturday To Benefit Band

Another downtown sale is scheduled for Central Park this coming Saturday, June 10th. This is being sponsored by Jacksonville Band Parents Association. Hours will be from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. Proceeds will aid the Association to help send band students in the junior and senior high schools to Band Camp this summer.

Members of Band Parents and friends of the Association are asked to contribute articles for the sale. Needed are good used clothing, furniture, baked goods, fresh eggs and produce and usable odds and ends. Those contributing these items are asked to have same at the Park about 8 a.m. prior to the 9 o'clock store opening hour. Donors are also asked to please mark a size and suggested price on each article of clothing and suggested price on any other type donation. Persons having questions regarding donation of items for the sale may phone Mrs. Joe Graham, 245-2267; Mrs. Edwin Ahlquist, 245-5088 or Mrs. Lloyd Markkille, 245-2840.

Warn Athletes About Protests During Olympics

ALEXANDRIA, Va. (AP) — Any American athletes who want to use the Olympic Games in Munich, Germany, as a protest platform will be left at home, two former Olympians said Wednesday.

But Jack Kelly, Amateur Athletic Union president, and Jesse Owens, chairman of the U.S. Olympic Committee, said a repeat of the Black Power demonstration four years ago at Mexico City is unlikely.

"If there are going to be demonstrations, it will take a different bent," Kelly said. Kelly, who competed in four Olympics, and Owens were in Alexandria, a Washington, D.C., suburb, to help raise funds for the 1972 U.S. Olympic team.

Also appearing at the $25-a-plate dinner was Rep. Bob Mathias, R-Calif., decathlon champion in the 1948 and 1952 games.

Owens, who won four gold medals in the 1936 Olympics in Berlin, said the Olympic Committee has set up a consulting committee because of the Mexico City demonstration.

Four years ago, winner Tommie Smith and runnerup John Carlos mounted the victory stand to receive their medals for the 200-meter dash. While "The Star-Spangled Banner" was playing, the two sprinters raised their black-gloved clenched fists into the air.

Smith and Carlos were dismissed from the U.S. team and evicted from the Olympic village.

After Hiding 37 Years

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — Thirty-seven years after being indicted on a murder charge, ailing Lonnie Cross surrendered to police, saying he wanted to "get right with the Lord."

"I'm in jail for the first time in my 66 years," said the bent old man who suffers from arthritis and headaches he said have plagued him since he was hit by a car about 20 years ago.

Clara Richert Of White Hall Dies Thursday

Clara Richert, 87, of 111 N. Main St., White Hall, died at 11:25 a.m. Thursday at Passavant Hospital where she had been a patient.

The body was taken to Mackey-Daws Funeral Home in Roodhouse.

Further obituary facts and arrangements will be announced.

She was born June 24, 1884 at Roodhouse, the daughter of Nathan and Jeremia Hardwick Allen.

She married LeRoy Richert who preceded her in death.

She is survived by a brother, Merrill Allen of Omaha, Neb., and a niece, Mrs. Eben (Eva Mae) Hunt of Roodhouse. Several nieces and nephews also survive.

Two brothers and three sisters preceded her in death. She was a member of the First Baptist church in Roodhouse.

Private funeral services will be held Saturday at 2 p.m. at the Mackey-Daws Funeral Home in Roodhouse. Burial will be in the Manchester cemetery.

Friends may call at the funeral home Friday from 7-9 p.m.

"But I wasn't free until the spirit of the Lord told me to come to Jacksonville and tell what happened back there," he said.

Cross limped into the Duval County sheriff's office Wednesday night and said he wanted to "get right with the Lord" by confessing to killing a man 37 years ago.

State Atty. Don Nichols checked court records and found a first-degree murder indictment was returned Dec. 1, 1935, charging Lonnie Smith, alias Lonnie Cross, with the knife slaying of Edward Bozier on Nov. 3, 1935.

In a jail interview Thursday, Cross said he had lived in New Orleans under the name Richard Mosley since 1937.

Cross has refused to discuss the circumstances of the slaying, but a copy of the coroner's inquest describes a scene of violence that began with a hot piece of cake and ended with Bozier on the floor with a knife blade jammed into his head.

The inquest report quoted witnesses as saying Cross became angry when he tried to eat a piece of cake hot from the oven and it fell from his hands.

Then he went into a room "to play with" his common law wife, but she said, "I don't feel good," and Cross pulled a knife and cut her on the hand, back and shoulder, the report stated.

"Essie B. Smith," who said she had been living with Cross, testified at the inquest that Bozier, Cross' landlord and friend, tried to keep Cross from chasing her and Cross swung the knife at Bozier.

Bozier died in a hospital eight days later.

"Her name was Bessie, not Essie," Cross said, "and her name wasn't Smith. She took that because I was using it."

Cross said he fled to Savannah and then to New Orleans, where he worked as a longshoreman until he was struck by a car.

"I think God blessed me that I didn't get killed," he said. "I didn't get religion right then, but one day my conscience came up on me. The thoughts of the Lord came on me."

That was about 13 years ago. Only recently, he said, the spirit of the Lord moved him to clear up his old trouble.

"It said 'You'll feel better to clear this up' and I feel better," Cross said. "I'm bound by four walls in this jail, but it is up to the Lord whether I will go free again."

Nichols said Cross will be arraigned Friday. Meanwhile, police are attempting to find witnesses of the 1935 crime before determining what action to take.

"We can't really convict him on my uncorroborated testimony," the state attorney said.

PIKE CHRISTIAN CHURCH CAMP TO BEGIN JUNE 11

MILTON — Mississippi Valley Christian Service camp will begin its summer program at its new facilities Sunday, June 11. The first week of camp will be for high school age students, with Lawrence Board of Chambersburg serving as dean. Junior High Week for those entering seventh and eighth grades will begin June 18, with Ron Bottens of Milton, dean. Junior Week for fourth through sixth graders will begin June 25, with Steve Lang of Detroit, dean.

Each week will consist of classes, recreation, swimming, a visiting missionary speaker, 8 p.m. vespers open to the public, social hour activities, and meals. Days conclude with campfire service and closing prayer circles.

Although the camp is sponsored and supported by the Christian churches of Pike county, attendance is not limited to youth of these churches. Any interested young person can get further information from the Pike county Christian churches or by contacting Fred Fish, minister of First Christian church in Jacksonville.

The new camp facilities, located 3/4 of a mile south of Detroit, Illinois, on Route 100, consist of 20 acres of wooded area with three new buildings. The facilities will cost approximately $12,000, most of which has already been donated.

Ed Wilkinson, Nebo, is camp manager, and Steve Lang, Detroit, assistant. Harold Johnston, Pearl, is treasurer.

Penn Central Train Derails

NEW YORK (UPI)—A Penn Central commuter train packed with up to 500 persons derailed Thursday in the Park Avenue Tunnel of Grand Central Terminal.

About 18 passengers were injured, police said. They were treated at a mobile disaster vehicle unit of the City's Health and Hospital Corp.

Authorities said only one of the five cars in the train went off the tracks.

A hospital dispatcher said it appeared none of the injured was seriously hurt. Most appeared to be only shaken, he added.

The train was en route from suburban New Rochelle to New York at the time of the rush-hour derailment.

Parsons gave up a run in the fourth on singles by Lou Piniella and Ed Kirkpatrick and Rojas' sacrifice fly. The Royals scored again in the seventh on Amos Otis' single, a ground out and Freddie Patek's single.

The Brewers scored what proved to be the winning run off Al Fitzmorris in the eighth on successive singles by Bobby Heise, Joe Lahoud and Conigliaro. Otis homered for Kansas City in the ninth.

Rojas' Error Lets Brewers Tip K.C. 4-3

KANSAS CITY (AP) — The Milwaukee Brewers cashed in on a throwing error by Kansas City second baseman Cookie Rojas in the seventh inning to score three runs and beat the Royals 4-3 Thursday night.

Paul Splittorff, 4-4, shut out the Brewers on two singles until the seventh. After Billy Conigliaro singled, Splittorff hit Tommy Reynolds with a pitch and John Felske beat out a bunt to fill the bases.

Rojas caught Elie Rodriguez' line drive but threw the ball into the dugout past first trying to double up Felske. Two runs scored and Felske went to third. Winning pitcher Bill Parsons, 6-2, helped his cause with a looping single to center for the third run.

Investigation Proposed Into Weil Charges

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — A resolution calling for the investigation of charges that legislators were offered money in return for votes moved to the floor of the Senate Wednesday.

The charges, leveled last month by Oscar Weil, executive director of the Illinois Federation of Teachers, accused the rival Illinois Education Association of making the "money offers."

Well later denied that he meant the legislators were being bribed. He said he based the charges on "loose talk" around the statehouse. His accusations were published in an ITF newsletter.

The resolution calling for the investigation passed the Executive Committee 18-0. It asks the Illinois Legislative Investigative Commission to probe into Weil's claims.

Officials of the Illinois Education Association have denied any wrongdoing, although they openly admit to having contributed to campaign funds of legislators who favor their bills.

In other action, the Executive Committee also asked the Legislative Investigative Commission to study charges that kickbacks have been offered to officials of several junior colleges by architectural firms if business were funneled their way.

Sen. G. William Horsley, R-Springfield, sponsor of the resolution, said that newspaper accounts indicated that such kickbacks were offered to the president of McHenry County Junior College.

James Davis, president of the college, was not available for comment. He did not testify before the committee.

Cal Skinner Jr., a resident of McHenry County, who said he had talked with Davis about the alleged kickback offers, testified, however, that Davis has turned information over to the McHenry County state's attorney.

The committee also released a resolution accusing the Bi-State Development Agency with allowing the transit system in the East St. Louis-St. Louis area to discriminate against blacks.

The resolution, sponsored by Sen. Kenneth Hall, D-East St. Louis, asks a bipartisan legislative commission be formed to investigate the agency's actions.

The agency has received $3.5 million in state funds over the last nine years. The resolution accuses the Bi-State Bus Co. of giving citizens of East St. Louis unequitable bus service and having "consistently resorted to racial discrimination in its hiring and promotion practices."

Representatives of the agency did not testify before the commission. The resolution passed 13-0 with five absences. It now goes to the Senate floor from where, if approved, it will be sent to the House.

Lon Nol Will Be Declared Election Winner

PHNOM PENH (AP) — Marshal Lon Nol will be declared official winner of Sunday's presidential elections in the next few days but the vote breakdown shows more opposition to his regime than even the most skeptical foreign observers believed.

The marshal won re-election by slightly less than 55 per cent of the vote according to unofficial figures provided by the Information Ministry with almost all votes counted.

He was heavily outvoted in Phnom Penh, the Cambodian capital, and took only slightly more than one-third of the votes in neighboring Kandal Province. This despite charges by both of his opponents of widespread voting irregularities.

The biggest surprise was the size of vote—only slightly more than a million citizens cast ballot, the fact that one in five voters chose Keo An, a candidate who openly advocated the return of Prince Norodom Sihanouk. The former chief of state exiled in Peking, is backed by the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong enemies of Phnom Penh's current rulers.

Observers, also had been watching the size of the poll as a clue to the number of Cambodians still under government control.

"If last Sunday's figures are to be trusted, then about two-thirds of all Cambodians are living under Communist control," declared In Tam, the former National Assembly president who came in second.

But In Tam disputes the figures. He has filed formal complaints of voting irregularities with the Constitutional Court. Keo An concurs in the charges.

NEW YORK (AP) — A major study of abortions in the United States has found that it is three to four times safer to have an abortion during the first three months of pregnancy than the second three months.

This was one key finding in a study of 72,968 abortions performed between July 1, 1970 and June 30, 1971 in 66 institutions in 12 states and the District of Columbia.

The study, conducted by the Population Council and released Wednesday, also found over the year of study that there was a significant increase in abortions among women who are black, of low income, married and who have been pregnant before.

"This is very important," said Dr. Christopher Tietze of the council. "These are among the groups which originally did not make full use of available services, did not get the same services as the more privileged groups."

Apart from these, the woman most likely to obtain an abortion was found to be young, single, white, pregnant for the first time and a private patient, not medically indigent.

The study found that the incidence of early medical complications, including minor complaints, was about 1 in 20 abortions in the first three months. For major complications, the incidence was 1 in 200.

"The risk to health associated with abortions was three to four times as high in the second trimester of pregnancy as in the first trimester," the study said.

"The important message is still get it early," said Tietze, coauthor of the study with Sarah Lewit.

Despite the increased proportions of abortion among blacks and others, Tietze said the four groups with the highest proportions of late abortions were still the poor, blacks, mothers of large families, those under 18.

"This is a matter of public education," he said. "Any late abortion is a social failure."

No-Fault Car Top Priority

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — President Nixon asked the nation's governors Wednesday to make no-fault insurance a matter of top priority.

"I have endorsed this system because I consider it to be a vast improvement and a genuine reform for the benefit of the consuming public," Nixon said in a telegram read at the concluding session of the National Governors Conference.

"I oppose involving the federal government in this insurance reform and I urge the states to act," Nixon said.

Nixon said he believes the states and not the federal level can best respond to the question of reform for the present system of automobile insurance.

"Despite ever-increasing premiums for automobile insurance, the victims of accidents frequently receive inadequate compensation and usually experience harmful delays in the courts," Nixon said.

The best-known alternative to this inefficient and inequitable system is the no-fault insurance concept which provides, in general, that accident victims' losses are covered by their own insuring company, no matter who caused the accident.

U.S. SEEKS TO SPARK AUSTERITY IN U.N. AGENCIES

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States has issued a 14-point policy statement designed to spark a serious economy wave in spending by the United Nations and its related agencies.

In a memorandum circulated by the U.S. mission in Geneva to American missions attached to the United Nations and its agencies, the State Department said the austerity principle set out for federal expenditures must apply equally to international organizations.

The memorandum says that if the budgets for U.N. agencies continue to grow at their present pace their spending totals will double in the next 10 years.

The aim of the American policy, according to the memo, is therefore to keep expenditure levels at their current size "for the next several years."

There should be no increase in program levels except for adding new and fully justified programs. But even these, should be added "only at the expense of older programs of lesser priority," the memorandum stated.

Hollywood

By BOB THOMAS Associated Press Writer HOLLYWOOD (AP) — They first met when he was 35 and an MGM star. She was 5 and on the brink of an amazing career as a child actress.

Thirty years later, Robert Young and Margaret O'Brien are starring together again. This time she isn't the homeless waif of "Journey for Margaret," the 1942 film that can still draw tears on the late night movie audiences.

Miss O'Brien is guest star on Young's high-rated television series "Marcus Welby, M.D." She is playing the overbearing wife of a business executive, and Dr. Welby treats her for obesity.

Margaret O'Brien with a weight problem? "It's true," she admitted. "I've been having some emotional problems over a lawsuit involving misuse of funds. I earned as a child. When I get upset, I eat."

"I was starting to diet when I had an interview for the role in 'Marcus Welby,' the producer, David Victor, said he wanted me just as I was. So now I've got to wait until the role is over before I can start to reduce."

The reunion of Miss O'Brien and Young brought back memories for both of them. Despite her tender age, she has a clear recollection of the 1942 film.

"I remember the scene in which I had to cry," the actress said. "I also remember how upset I was when someone tried to steal scenes from me."

"No way," said Young. "We did another picture together, 'The Canterville Ghost.' Charles Laughton played the ghost and he was in his glory, dressed up in pantaloons and flying all over on wires. Charlie drew me aside and said, 'I've never worked with a child actress before; what can I do to keep her from stealing the scene from me?'"

"I told him, 'Charles, forget it. Even with that gaudy getup and you flitting all over the stage, everybody's going to be watching her.'"

Born in Los Angeles, Margaret had played in one film, "Babies on Broadway," then was chosen to portray a neurotic war orphan in "Journey for Margaret." It was a B picture but such a convincing tear-jerker that it proved a hit.

They rarely saw each other after he left MGM. She remained to star in such films as "Lost Angel," "Meet Me in St. Louis," "Our Vines Have Tender Grapes" and "Little Women." With the onset of the awkward age, she departed MGM to free lance. In 1959, she married advertising man Robert Allen. After 10 years and no children, they were divorced.

In recent years Miss O'Brien has toured in "Barefoot in the Park," "Under the Yum Yum Tree" and other plays, and played guest roles in television.

Late Rally Sends Birds By Giants 6-4

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Don Clendenon's two-run homer in the top of the eighth broke a 4-4 tie and the St. Louis Cardinals beat San Francisco 6-4 Thursday, handing the Giants their sixth straight loss.

Clendenon's blast, his second of the year, came off Don McMahon, who had replaced starter Sam McDowell, lifted after catcher Ted Simmons' eighth-inning triple. Simmons drove in three runs, knotting the score.

Earlier, McDowell had coasted along on six hits and given the Giants a 4-1 lead when his triple had driven in a pair of runs in the sixth inning.

Chris Speier's single scored Bobby Bonds in the first inning to give the Giants a 1-0 lead. San Francisco increased its margin to 2-0 in the third inning when Bonds scored from third on a wild pitch.

The Cards scored in the fourth on three consecutive singles.

Veteran right-hander Diego Segui, 1-0, registered his first National League victory in relief after joining the Cards Wednesday. He was 0-1 with the American League's Oakland A's.

NEW YORK (AP) — Ruritania will try to do for Greentree Stable what Stage Door Johnny did in 1968—win the Belmont Stakes—but it will take luck, assistant trainer John Gaver Jr. said Thursday.

"If we win the Belmont, we will be lucky," said Gaver who assists his father as conditioner of Greentree horses.

"Stage Door Johnny would have been a great horse," said young Gaver. "Ruritania won't be."

Stage Door Johnny, unraced at 2, lost his 3-year-old debut and then won his next five races before being retired because of an injury. His last three victories were in the Belmont, Withers and Saranac.

Ruritania will go into Saturday's Belmont at Belmont Park with one win in seven starts as a 2-year-old and two victories and two seconds in five outings this year. In his only stakes races, the Withers May 31, he finished fifth.

Ruritania figures to be an outsider in a field that should include Meadow Stable's Riva Ridge, winner of the Kentucky Derby and more than $70,000 and the fourth-place finisher in the Preakness, and Paul Mellon's Key To The Mint, third in the Preakness and winner of the Withers.

Post time for the $125,000-added, 1 1/4-mile Belmont, last and longest of the Triple Crown races which also include the Derby and Preakness, is scheduled for 5:35 p.m., EDT.

Television coverage will be from 5-6 p.m. and radio coverage from 5:25-5:45 p.m., both by CBS.

A colt given a good chance to ruin the expected duel between Riva Ridge and Key To The Mint is Mr. and Mrs. F. William Arder's improving Smiling Jack, a seven-length winner of the Jersey Derby May 29.

Smiling Jack is trained by veteran Ralph McIlvann, who once served as an assistant to Lucien Laurin, trainer of Riva Ridge.

Other Belmont probabilities are Roy Anderson's Spanish Riddle, also trained by Laurin; Joseph R. Many Possibilities

Future Of ABA Unpredictable

By BERT ROSENTHAL

Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — The weak branches in the American Basketball Association may find out next week that the league's stabilization committee does its work with a pruning saw.

A source within the league told The Associated Press that Memphis possibly and Pittsburgh and Florida probably will be lopped off.

The ABA, whose whole future is subject to multiple kinds of speculation, will begin a two-day meeting here Monday. Its stabilization committee, headed by Richard P. Tinkham, executive vice president and secretary of the Indiana Pacers, has been studying the financially weak franchises in Memphis,

Pittsburgh and Florida. "I think what the ABA wants is to have only strong teams in the league," a source told The Associated Press. "It doesn't want teams that won't hold up their end."

"There is a possibility that they will try and save the Memphis franchise because Memphis has a good sports building. I think they will come up with the proper ownership for Memphis."

"I have my doubts about Pittsburgh and Florida," he continued. "There probably will be some bids, but whether they will be approved by the league is questionable."

The Floridians, in their fourth season in the five-year-old league, drew only 87,000 home fans last season, an average of about 2,000 per game. Pittsburgh, also in its fourth season, announced a home attendance of about 89,000 and Memphis drew approximately 130,000.

Since Commissioner Jack Dolph announced his resignation June 2, there have been various published reports, rumors and speculation concerning the league's future. Dolph's resignation is effective Oct. 1, when his contract expires.

Among the possibilities mentioned have been: —The ABA disbanding at its meetings Monday and Tuesday. —The rival National Basketball Association picking up the financially strongest ABA teams if the younger league disbands.

—The ABA dropping some possible three-teams and becoming an eight-team league next season. —The ABA trying to find buyers for the Pittsburgh, Florida and Memphis franchises and possibly trying to move them to other cities.

—Putting the Denver franchise in limbo until a new arena can be built. —And the long-standing talk of merger with the older league.

Dolph, in his resignation announcement, said, "I believe that a merger between the two leagues is only a matter of time and Walter Kennedy will be commissioner of the single expanded league. It therefore behooves me to look to my own future and certain opportunities that are available at the present time."

There were, however, indications that Dolph was fired or at least resigned under pressure.

"It was generally assumed that his contract was not going to be renewed," a source told The AP. "His announcement apparently was some kind of face saving gesture."

An NBA spokesman said "the current status of the merger" would be an item on the agenda at the league's board meeting June 15-16 in White Sulphur Springs, W.Va.

Vons Classic To Be Test For Olympics?

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The world's three greatest shot putters collide for the first time, and Rodney Milburn gets his stiffest test in years at the Vons Track Classic in the Los Angeles Coliseum.

With an event card that may be second only to the Olympic Trials, the Vons meet brings together talent Friday night in a number of head-to-head confrontations for which track fans dream.

Al Feuerbach, 1972's surprise because of his 70 feet 3 3/4 inch shot put, meets world record holder Randy Matson and the world's only other 70-footer, George Woods. All three say they have to do well in this meet to gain a psychological edge before the Olympic Trials later this month. The trio has never before competed on the same field.

Von Ruden, the Stillwater, Okla., resident, lost to Ryan at the Kansas Relays earlier this year as Ryan ran 3:57.1. Then, Ryan has run poorly for one mile although doing well at other distances.

SPORTS NOTES FROM ALL OVER

Jacksonville's Ken Norton has another victory to his credit, a punctured ear drum to show for it and "a wild idea" of possibly fighting in his home town. The victory, Norton's 27th in 28 professional heavyweight bouts, was a ten-round unanimous decision over Herschel Jacobs in San Diego Monday evening. The punctured ear drum came from what Norton called a "slap on the ear" during the bout, with Jacobs suffering a concussion and a broken nose. Before the Monday night bout, Norton, a former JHS athlete now fighting out of San Diego, was ranked 12th in the world in the World Boxing Association ratings, up from 14th a month ago. Norton has a June 28 bout scheduled in San Diego against New York state champion James J. Woody, a well known heavyweight decided by Norton last September. The "wild idea" mentioned by Norton in a phone conversation this week centered around the possibility of Norton and his promoter staging a fight in Jacksonville later this summer against a formidable opponent. "It's just a wild idea right now," commented Norton, "but I want to talk about it when I get home in a few days and I want to talk it over with my promoter." Norton, who has been trying to get a bout against big name opponents the past several months to no avail, is running into the same problem. "I thought I had Jerry Quarry locked up, then (Muhammed) Ali came along and offered him more money," reports Norton. "I also had a chance to meet Mac Foster. We offered him a $25,000 guarantee but (Joe) Frazier gave him between $50,000 and $90,000 for their fight. I still think I can get a fight against Quarry in August or September, but everyone now is waiting for a chance to fight Ali or Frazier for the money." In this writer's opinion, a bout featuring Norton would go over big in Jacksonville and rest assured that we will do all we can to get the fight a reality.

DRAG RACING fans in the area have a treat in store this weekend at the Beardstown Drag Strip, promoted by Ken Dobson of Jacksonville. Top drag races are on top Friday and Saturday night and Sunday afternoon, with perhaps the top name in all of drag racing, "Big Daddy" Don Garlits pitted against Dobson in a special match race Friday evening. . . . ST. LOUIS Football Cardinal public relations director Joe Pollack called Thursday with a message for local and area grid fans. Pollack relates that only a very few tickets remain for the Oct. 29 Cardinal-Chicago Bears tilt in Busch Stadium and that requests for the tilt should be mailed immediately. The Cards and Bears meet in a pre-season match at Busch Stadium Sept. 9, with tickets fairly short for that one as well. . . . ADD TO THE list of basketball hopefuls at Illinois College next year Roger Nelson, the captain of last season's Bloomington High School cage squad. . . . THE KANSAS CITY Royals have a tryout camp slated in Springfield at Lanphier Park June 12, starting at 10 a.m. More details may be obtained from Mickey Madison in Springfield.

THE ILLINOIS Association of Sports Editors recently voted approval of separate Associated Press weekly statewide high school basketball ratings, covering Class 'AA' and Class 'A' schools. Last year only one poll was conducted in the first season of separate classes in Illinois. The AP, however, will continue to pick only one all-state team.

IN CASE YOU were a bit confused by the winning pitcher for the St. Louis Cardinals in Thursday's game with San Francisco, don't feel bad. It is becoming something of a chore to keep up with the changes coming out of Busch Stadium this year. Diego Segui, Thursday's winner in his first day with the team, came from Oakland this week for "a player to be named later." Relief hurler Charlie Hudson was sent to the minors. . . . LARRY DICKSON, driving a car sponsored by Dr. Ward Dunseth of Jacksonville, has dropped to fourth in the current USAC Sprint Car Division point standings as of this week. J. Foyt, nine seconds in 1971. Highest baseball player earnings: $1,091,477 by Babe Ruth 1914-1938. Highest catch in baseball history: Joe Sprinz (Cleveland) caught a baseball dropped from an airship at 800 feet in July 1931. The force of catching the ball broke his jaw. Basketball origin: Olamalitzli, a 16th century Aztec precursor of the game played in Mexico. If a solid rubber ball was put through a fixed stone ring placed high on one side of the stadium, the player was entitled to the clothing of all the spectators. The captain of the losing team often lost his head, by execution. Biggest basketball crowd ever: 75,000 in West Berlin, 1951, with Harlem Globetrotters playing in an exhibition game. Tallest basketball player: Vasily Akhtayev of USSR, who played in 1956 at 7'7 1/2". Fastest run of 100 in billiards, .275 by Walter Lindrum in Australia in 1952.

K.C., D.C. Picked As NHL Franchises

By HAL BOCK

Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — The National Hockey League moved two steps closer Thursday to its goal of 24 teams by the end of this decade, granting expansion franchises to Kansas City, Kan., and Washington, D.C., for the 1974-75 season.

Then, the New York Islanders and Atlanta Flames, who start play in the NHL for the first time next season, picked the two choicest plums in the draft of eligible junior players.

The Islanders, choosing first, selected Billy Harris of the Toronto Marlboros and Atlanta chose Jacques Richard of the Quebec Remparts.

Harris said he had been contacted by both Bill Torrey, general manager of the Islanders, and the rival World Hockey Association. "It's all a matter of money," he said. "I'd sign for $2,000 less with an NHL club, but if the WHA offered $25,000 or $50,000 more I'd go with them."

Earlier, in the day, the NHL Board of Governors settled its own matter of money, admitting two new members at a cost of $6 million each.

The governors granted the Kansas City, Kan., franchise to a group of 14 investors headed by Edwin G. Thompson and including Jeff Jennings, 26-year-old son of New York Rangers President Bill Jennings.

The Washington, D.C., franchise went to Abe Pollin, owner of the Baltimore Bullets of the National Basketball Association.

Clarence Campbell, president of the NHL, said it took the governors four ballots to get the required three-quarter vote for acceptance.

Eliminated in the bidding were two other groups representing Kansas City and the cities of Dallas, Cincinnati, Indianapolis, Phoenix, San Diego and Cleveland.

Campbell made it clear that the cities eliminated Thursday remained very much in the expansion picture and that the governors would discuss additional franchises in August, as they continue their goal of 24 clubs before 1980.

Thompson said the Kansas City team would play in suburban Johnson County in a municipal building scheduled for completion by the spring of 1974.

Pollin plans to have his Washington team play in the proposed Eisenhower Center Arena scheduled to be constructed in the downtown area. If the Eisenhower Center cannot be finished by September, 1974, Pollin said he planned to construct his own building in suburban Largo, Md.

Twenty-three NHL-owned players were chosen in the reserve draft by American and Western Hockey League clubs for the $15,000 claiming price.

The Orioles and Cardinals used three-run sixth innings as insurance to ward off their opponents and escaped with wins in Elks Little League action Thursday evening.

The Orioles broke its contest open in the fifth and sixth innings with five runs and halted a rally by the Red Sox in the bottom of the sixth to pick up a 9-6 win.

Jamie Woodward paced the winners at the plate with a home run and a single. The Orioles evened its record with the Red Sox as both teams now stand 6-4.

The Cardinals took an 8-4 lead into the bottom of the last inning after notching five tallies in the final two frames and limited the Braves to only one more score to gain an 8-5 win.

Frank Kaufman had a home run for the winners while Rick Meado blasted a triple and double for the Braves.

Chris Evert Shooles For Top In England

MIAMI (AP) — Tennis sensation Chris Evert headed Thursday for three weeks in England where the teen-age sports heroine will shoot for Wimbledon and Wightman Cup glory.

"It's the biggest month of my life," said the cute, 17-year-old high school junior. "I've been dreaming about Wimbledon ever since Forest Hills last year."

Miss Evert rocketed into the tennis spotlight 10 months ago by reaching the semifinals at Forest Hills, N.Y., and has since beaten the world's top players in head-to-head matches.

Chris plans to turn professional Jan. 1 after she reaches the minimum age of 18, as stipulated in the rules of the United States Lawn Tennis Association. But, she will perform in England as an amateur.

Jimmy Evert, her father-teacher-manager, was left behind in Fort Lauderdale due to a brisk summer business at his city-owned Holiday Park Tennis Center.

"I really don't think Chris needs me to be there any longer," said Evert, a former Notre Dame tennis star. "I think she can handle herself and, anyway, her mother will be there if she needs a shoulder to cry on."

Despite his long-haired daughter's incredible success over the past year, Evert doesn't expect miracles when Chris steps on the courts at fabled Wimbledon.

"I have tried to prepare her for the worst," he said. "I told her I would certainly understand if she lost and I'm sure everyone else will, too. After all, she's still just a little, teen-aged girl."

Chris feels Billie Jean King will be the woman to beat when Wimbledon's tournament opens June 26 following the Wightman Cup matches. Miss Evert holds a 3-2 edge over the $100,000-a-year pro from California. "She beat Evonne Goolagong 6-3, 6-3 in the French open, said Chris. "So Billie Jean should be the world's No. 1 ranked player. I'm sure her game is sharper than when I was playing her last winter."

Miss Evert's infrequent appearances on the U.S. pro tour would have earned her more than $13,000 had the teen-ager been able to accept purses. But, she's still playing for trophies and realizes a poor performance at Wimbledon could cost her father some money.

The Wightman Cup expenses are paid, but Wimbledon isn't giving Chris a dime to stay in England and participate. However, if she wins prize money, it will go to the USLTA, which will then repay Evert for the money he spent to send Chris to Wimbledon.

"It's a great thrill for me to have Chris going to Wimbledon," said Evert. "Even if she wins nothing, it will be a good experience. We'll scrape up the money to take care of it."

Champion Wins 7-2 For Phils Over Houston

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Larry Bowa drove in three runs and Tommy Hutton added two with a home run to lead the Philadelphia Phillies to a 7-2 victory over the Houston Astros Thursday night.

Billy Champion, 4-3, had checked the Astros on just one hit—Bob Watson's single in the fifth—and carried a 4-0 lead into the seventh inning.

But when Cesar Cedeno tripled and Lee May and Watson singled Joe Hoerner came on to set down the next three batters and preserve the victory.

It was the Phils' second in a row—the first time they have put two triumphs together in more than a month.

Hutton's double and Bowa's triple gave them a run in the second inning and they scored two more in the fourth.

They chased Houston starter Larry Dierker, 5-3, in the sixth when they added a run on singles by Money and McCarver and Bowa's sacrifice fly off Jim Ray.

Philadelphia capped the scoring with a three-run seventh as Willie Montanez doubled, Luzinski singled him home and Hutton hit his fourth homer of the year.

Only one game was close as Hess Tire, Wareco and D&D Sports Center posted victories Thursday night in the YMCA National League at Nichols Park.

Hess Tire used a four-run sixth inning to edge Hertzberg 6-2, with Jim Downer ripping a pair of doubles for the winners.

Wareco ripped Carnation 19-8 with Andy Planitz and Bill Lowe each getting four hits for the winners and Charles Erdman stroking three for the losers.

D&D blasted the Ashland Indians 13-2 with Billy Vaniter getting three hits for the winners. Isaac Haley blasted a pair of homers for D&D.

Donohue Challenger In Can-Am

MOSPORT PARK, Ont. (AP) — Newcomer Mark Donohue will challenge veterans Peter Revson and Denis Hulme Sunday in the season's opener of the Canadian-American Challenge Cup series for unlimited sports car racing.

Joining Donohue, winner of the Indianapolis 500; Revson, the 1971 Can-Am champion and Hulme, Can-Am runner-up last year, will be Jackie Oliver and David Hobbs.

Revson won the Can-Am title for the British-based Team McLaren in 1971, but moved over to McLaren's Formula 1 aggregation this year to make room for world driving champ Jackie Stewart of Scotland.

Stewart, however, came down with a bleeding ulcer and must pass up Sunday's 80 lap, 197-mile race over Mosport Park's tricky 2.47-mile course. Revson, naturally, was selected by team Manager Teddy Mayer as Stewart's replacement, having already earned his credentials by winning five of last year's 10 races and edging teammate Denis Hulme for the title.

Stewart, who won two races last year in a team Lola, is expected to join the tour in time for the next race at Road Atlanta July 9.

Donohue, who won the Indianapolis 500 three weeks ago, makes his debut in the Can-Am in a new Porsche 917-10 fielded by Philadelphia mainliner Roger Penske.

Practices and qualifying to select the 35 starters begin Friday and continue through Saturday.

Eight Tied For Ladies PGA Lead

SUTTON, Mass. (AP) — Defending champion Kathy Whitworth ran into putting trouble and eight other golf pros, including Janie Blalock, moved into a tie for the lead as par stood up in startling fashion Thursday in the opening round of the $50,000 Eve Ladies PGA championship.

Deadlocked with one-over-par 74s at the rain-soaked Pleasant Valley Country Club with Miss Blalock were Japan's Sayoko Yamazaki, Pam Barnett, Betty Burfeindt, Barbara Romack, Carole Jo Skala, Sandra Palmer and Sharon Miller.

"I can't recall the last time any of the girls failed to shoot at least par in a round," Miss Whitworth said. "It certainly hasn't happened this year."

Miss Whitworth equalled par 36 on the front nine, but then went two over for 39 after the turn, tying Marilyn Smith, Gloria Ehret, Kathy Ahern and Chako Higuchi, another Japanese entry, at 75.

Miss Blalock, who attracted most of the crowd of 3,605 fans, started in very nervous fashion, but overcame heavy pressure.

The former New England champion from Portsmouth, N.H. was suspended last week by the LPGA for one year for "unethical practices." She then filed a $5 million federal court suit and obtained a temporary injunction permitting her to play pending a hearing.

Kathy Cornelius was all alone at 76. The scores then mounted as high as Judy Kimball's fat 90 as the biggest field in LPGA history—82 starters—found the 6,130-yard layout to tough.

The field will be trimmed to the low 50 and ties after the second round of the 72-hole tournament Friday.

Tri-County Boy's League

Franklin dropped the "B" team contest but bounced back to nip Meredosia in the "A" game in Tri-County League baseball action Thursday night.

Franklin had to come up with four runs in the top of the sixth to overcome a three-run Meredosia rally in the bottom of the inning to pick up a 9-8 triumph.

Kevin Busser's two-out single in the sixth inning drove in two runs which proved to be the difference for the winners. Greg McQueen was the winning hurler, scattering six hits while his teammates committed six errors. Greg Gordley absorbed the loss for Meredosia.

In the "B" contest, Meredosia racked up three runs in the opening stanza and never looked back in gaining a 7-4 decision.

Ron Cochran and Bob Downing each had a triple. Randy Schute notched the mound win for Meredosia as he allowed only two hits.

CHAPIN — Arenzville walked away with the "A" contest and barely escaped with a win in the "B" game over Chapin in Tri-County League baseball action Thursday night.

Arenzville had a ten run third inning and pushed 11 tallies across in the fourth in breezing by the hosts 28-0 as B. Lovekamp hurled a no-hitter in the five-inning "A" contest.

Lovekamp hurled the gem as he struck out 12 batters and allowed only four runners to reach base. He received plenty of offensive support as J. Wessler ripped three home runs and Ginder knocked a solo blast.

Arenzville used a six-run third stanza and held off Chapin to take the "B" game 8-6.

2-Run Fifth Sends Atlanta Past Expos 3-2

MONTREAL (AP) — Felix Millan drilled a tie-breaking double in the fifth inning, then scored what proved to be the winning run on Darrell Evans' sacrifice fly as the Atlanta Braves edged Montreal 3-2 Thursday night.

Rico Carty gave the Braves a 1-0 lead in the fourth inning with his fifth home run of the season but the Expos tied it in the bottom of the fourth as Mike Jorgensen walked, stole second and came home on Ron Fairly's single.

Atlanta went ahead for good in the fifth against Bill Stoneman, 5-5, as Ralph Garr singled and came home on the double by Millan, who then took third on a wild pitch and came home on Evans' fly ball.

The Expos scored their final run in the sixth.

To Brewer, Jamieson

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Veteran Gay Brewer, hospitalized less than two months ago, and Jim Jamieson matched five-under-par 67s Thursday and shared the first-round lead in the $150,000 IVB Philadelphia Golf Classic.

The 40-year-old Brewer, who scored his last official tour victory in the 1967 Masters, and non-winner Jamieson held a one-stroke lead over a challenging trio that included former Philadelphia champion Bob Murphy.

Hubert Green and longshot Don Iverson also had 68s on the 6,708-yard Whitemarsh Valley Country Club course.

Young Jerry Heard, a two-time winner this season, and longtime club pro Dick Hendrickson, who has yet to win money in his first season on the major tour, followed at 69.

South African Gary Player, one of the pre-tourney picks for the $30,000 first prize, managed a 71 while Lee Trevino struggled in with a 74, well back in the field.

Tom Weiskopf, the defending champion, was at 75 in the mild, breezy weather and was in some danger of missing the cut when the field is trimmed for the final two rounds Saturday and Sunday.

Arnold Palmer, Jack Nicklaus and Billy Casper are not competing in this tournament, the last event before next week's United States Open championship.

"I feel a helluva lot better now than I have in 2½ years," said the graying Brewer, who was hospitalized with bleeding ulcers just before this year's Masters.

He still takes medication and has to follow a bland diet.

"If my wife hadn't been with me at Augusta, Ga., I'd probably have died because I wouldn't have called a doctor," Brewer said.

"I'd been having stomach cramps for a long time but I'd been putting off going to the doctor. I guess I was afraid of what he might find."

Brewer, who won two Alcan titles—unofficial events—since his Masters triumph, made his round when he played the five holes starting on the 13th five under par.

Jamieson, who carries some 215 pounds on his 5-foot-10 frame, has yet to win in four years on the tour but reached national prominence with his strong challenge in this year's Masters.

Court Decision Leaves Confused Rules For Questioning Suspects

By BARRY SCHWEID
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The latest Supreme Court turn toward the right in criminal law appears to leave confused the rules for questioning suspects.

According to a 5-4 decision by the court on Wednesday, police do not have to provide a lawyer when they put an arrested suspect in a lineup or a showup for identification.

And yet, under the 1966 Miranda decision, the suspect is entitled to a lawyer from the moment stationhouse interrogation begins.

The two decisions appear to be in some conflict. Presumably, the suspect would be granted a lawyer when the interrogation began, but if police choose later to bring in witnesses for identification the lawyer would have to step out of the room.

A possible approach the police now might take in light of the new ruling would be to put off questioning until after the lineup—shutting out the lawyer until then. In the process, they might pick up a solid identification. And that could be as valuable at trial as a confession.

Complicating the situation still further is the 1967 Wade decision in which the court ruled 6 to 3 that once a suspect has been indicted he cannot be placed in a lineup unless a lawyer is on hand.

What this decision and the one Wednesday in a case from Chicago add up to is this: If the suspect has been indicted, he is entitled to a lawyer at the lineup. If he has been arrested but not indicted, he is not entitled to a lawyer at the lineup.

Add to this the fact that under Miranda he is entitled to a lawyer during interrogation and you have a complicated situation.

In a dissenting opinion signed also by Justices William O. Douglas and Thurgood Marshall, Justice William J. Brennan questioned the court's logic. A fourth justice, Byron R. White, said the court should have applied the Wade decision to the Chicago case. It involved an arrested suspect, Thomas Kirby, identified in a face-to-face stationhouse showup by a holdup victim.

Speaking for the majority, Justice Potter Stewart concluded this 6th Amendment right takes hold only beginning with a formal charge, preliminary hearing, indictment, information or arraignment.

With the decision the court snapped a string of rulings extending the right to counsel.

However, in a case from Tennessee, the court settled on the side of defendants. Struck down was an 1887 state law requiring defendants who wish to testify to take the stand before other defense witnesses.

Justice Brennan, heading a 6-3 majority, said he realized a defendant might color his testimony by what had gone before. That, he said, was a matter best left to the jury's judgment.

In a third, 7-0 ruling, the court barred the states from indefinitely committing to a mental institution criminal defendants found incompetent by psychiatrists to stand trial.

The decision, by Blackmun, said it is unconstitutional to make it easier to commit a criminal suspect than the mentally ill and feeble-minded and to make it tougher for a suspect to win his release.

Senate Passes Appropriations Measures

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — The Illinois Senate approved and sent to the House Thursday more than $1.2 billion in appropriations, including $10 million restored for vocational technical centers.

The restoration was to an Illinois school building appropriation bill totalling $48 million in final form.

Originally, the appropriation included $20 million for the centers, but a Democratic task force screening fiscal 1973 budgets of Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie had knocked out the sum Tuesday.

The total of all Ogilvie budgets is $7.4 billion.

The $10 million was restored with Democratic agreement. It applies to six centers already under construction or in operation. They are at Alton, Sandwich, Pekin, Danville, Wheaton and Duplo.

Sen. John Gilbert, R-Carbondale, sponsor of the restoration, said he hoped the other $10 million would be replaced in the House.

The largest appropriation adopted were $410.4 million for the Department of Mental Health, $271.9 million for operation of the office of State School Supt. Michael Bakalis, and $176.9 million for the teacher retirement system. An attempt to reduce the retirement system by about $42 million failed.

Senate action also cleared the $79.5 million outlay for the Department of Labor and $63 million for capital improvements in streams.

M. L. Winkelman

On May 26 he graduated from Concordia Seminary, St. Louis, Missouri, with a Master of Divinity degree. His year of vicarage was spent at Trinity Lutheran Church, Cape Girardeau, Missouri. He has accepted the call to be pastor of Our Savior Lutheran Church, Sterling, Illinois, where he will be installed on July 16 in an evening service.

The ordination service, to be held at Trinity Lutheran, will begin at 3:30 p.m. This special service signifies that Mr. Winkelman, who has been certified by Concordia Seminary as eligible for a call to a congregation of the Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod, has chosen the ministry as his life's calling, and publicly declares that he will preach and teach in accord with the Holy Scriptures and the Lutheran Confessions. The guest speaker for this special service will be the Rev. Robert Martens of Hales Corners, Wisconsin. Rev. Louis Knief, assisted by other Lutheran pastors of the area, will perform the rite of ordination.

Mr. Winkelman will also preach a special sermon on Sunday, June 25 at the regular worship service for Trinity Lutheran Church, Arenzville. He is the third man from Trinity to enter the pastoral ministry during its 100 years. His topic will be "Hold Fast," based on Hebrews 10:23-25. Members and friends are cordially invited to attend both of these services, according to Rev. Knief, pastor.

Doctors, Medical Institutions

Equally Wary Of Acupuncture

By H. J. HELLER
United Press International
Since President Nixon's trip to Peking the American public in general and the medical profession in particular have been increasingly intrigued by the Chinese practice of acupuncture.

The word and the technique itself have not been unknown here but in the minds of many persons it has been associated with the pseudo-scientific or in some cases the occult.

A nationwide survey by UPI suggests that doctors and medical institutions are equally wary of acupuncture at the present time. There are very few exceptions.

The general tenor of the survey was typified by Dr. John Lincoln, chief of anesthesiology at Maine Medical Center, that state's leading hospital.

Extremely Interested
"I am extremely interested in acupuncture—watching developments and scientific literature to help in making the decision on our future course," Lincoln said.

Comparatively, an enthusiastic answer came from Dr. William S. Derrick, head of anesthesiology at the University of Texas Medical School in Houston.

"We are certainly very interested in the whole subject of acupuncture. A civilization which has been using it for hundreds of years must have something going for it...we are

Acupuncture—simple in definition but complex in practice—consists of the insertion of needles of various metals, shapes and sizes into one or several of more than 300 spots on the human trunk, the extremities and the head to deaden nerves and stop pain.

Requires Years of Training
Like any other discipline it requires years of intensive training and the Chinese are the only ones equipped to practice it.

While most doctors and institutions at the very minimum expressed some curiosity in acupuncture the American

From its headquarters in Park Ridge, Ill., the ASA said Friday while acupuncture was "a potentially valuable technique" there were possible hazards associated with it including the application of acupuncture to patients who have not been properly psychologically evaluated.

"If acupuncture is applied indiscriminately, severe mental trauma could result in certain patients," said the ASA.

Another hazard was the possible misuse of acupuncture by quacks attempting to treat a variety of illnesses, including cancer and arthritis, thereby diverting the patients from obtaining established medical treatment, the society said.

The major exception appeared to be the University of Illinois Medical School where chief anesthesiologist Dr. Alon Winnie said, "We plan to start a large program in use of acupuncture in about a month...in our upcoming study we will pick patients randomly to receive acupuncture and others to get drug injections. Then we will cross over and compare results of those given acupuncture and those given usual anesthesia."

But Dr. Winnie said as of now no courses of study were planned. He, too, exhibited the caution of the others saying

Georgia Travel
ATLANTA (UPI) — Travel spending in Georgia hit a new high of about $1.2 billion in 1971, a 10 per cent increase over 1970, the tourist division of the state Department of Industry and Trade reports.

Of this amount, it is estimated that vacation-recreation travelers on Georgia highways spent $757.1 million and another $82.3 million was spent by tourists traveling by plane, train or bus, bringing total tourist spending to $839.4 million in 1971, also a 10 per cent boost over 1970.

Environment Meet Told Man Driving Self Crazy With Noise

By JOHN A. CALLCOTT
STOCKHOLM (UPI) — Man rapidly is driving himself crazy with noise, although it is the easiest form of pollution to control, the World Health Organization (WHO) said Thursday in a report to the U.N. Environment Conference.

The WHO report described noise as "the curse of modern times and a major environmental problem," and said people's hearing is increasingly severely affected.

For instance, a recent survey in Sweden showed that nearly 20 per cent of all persons between the ages of 15 and 20 applying for jobs had hearing problems caused by noise. It was double the number in 1956.

WHO said doctors now attribute one in every three cases of neurosis to noise and blame noise for one in every five headaches.

"It has now become urgent to set permissible limits on noise," the report said.

Noise is measured in decibels, WHO noted, saying that 140 decibels produces insanity. A space rocket launch produces 170 decibels and a fire siren 150 — both well above the insanity level. Pneumatic drills used to break up pavement brings 120 decibels — the threshold of pain.

The 1,500 delegates to the meeting from 112 nations convened in both full and committee meetings Thursday after passing more than 200 recommendations to be adopted by the conference before it adjourns June 16.

On the sidelines of the conference, the United States and Sweden squabbled over Prime Minister Olof Palme's reference to U.S. "indiscriminate bombing, large scale use of bulldozers and herbicides" in the Vietnam War.

Palme said such a thing amounted to what he called ecocide. Although he never mentioned the United States by name, he said later he was speaking of the Vietnam War.

Russell E. Train, the U.S. delegate to the conference, angrily protested Palme's attack. He said the Nixon administration strongly objects to "gratuitous politicizing" of the environmental discussions.

He said the question of Vietnam is purely political and should be dealt with in other international forums.

Robinson, who hurled a no-hitter his first start this season, had to do a lot of forgetting. The Dodgers had runners in all but one inning.

Williams hit his home run in the first off Los Angeles, a two-run blow, and then Frank Robinson singled home the Dodgers' only run in the fifth, scoring Bill Buckner who had three of Los Angeles' hits.

But then Fanzone hit his three-run wallop in the sixth, also off Singer.

NEW YORK (AP) — The latest quarterly report of a widely distributed analysis of consumer buying plans, now in preparation, suggests that the nation is on the verge of a spending spree that could produce an economic boom.

But another well-known consumer forecaster, Sindinger & Co., disputes the findings, claiming that the spree, if that is what it should be termed, already has passed, and goes on to challenge the report's methodology.

The report, to be distributed later this month, is produced for the Commercial Credit Company, based on interpretations of Census Bureau data and other materials by an editorial board of economists and educators.

F. Thomas Juster, vice president of the National Bureau of Economic Research, states that consumers have sharply reduced their hesitancy and caution.

While some elements of hesitancy still can be observed, he states, the demand for single-family housing appears to be at its strongest in years and should lead to further spending for furniture and appliances.

Evidence of the growing confidence, says Juster, is indicated by sharp rises not only in mortgage credit but in the rate of installment purchases. "People are going into hock," he said in an interview.

Sindinger, however, claims that the spree is now over. "What both the Census Bureau and the Survey Research Center are measuring is what already has taken place, not what is going to happen," he said.

Both surveys utilize extensive face-to-face interviews, the results of which are processed and published weeks later. Sindinger interviews each week by telephone and reports his findings immediately.

As he sees it, there is only historic value in reporting what was on the minds of consumers at a given time. What is important, he claims, is to seek out their expectations or months ahead and then to make forecasts based on those expectations.

Sindinger maintains that consumers forecast a rise in spending as early as last October when, according to his "Forecast Confidence Index," a sharp rise in consumer spending would begin in March and April.

Now he forecasts that the level of spending will remain rather firm until just before the elections, "when it will begin leveling off."

Shipbuilding Is Big Business In Japan

By FREDERICK H. MARKS

TSU, Japan (UPI) — An enormous sheet of heavy steel comes rolling down the production line and stops under a device which automatically transposes architectural diagrams on its surface. The sheet then moves over a series of rollers and is cut by an automatic acetylene torch.

Huge magnets are next lowered and, with a snap, picks up the sheet, allowing its weight to automatically bend it into the desired shape. Ribs are automatically welded onto the sheet of twisted metal, and one module of a supertanker is ready for sea. Thus Japanese ships are born—almost untouched by human hands.

In Japan, a maritime nation, shipbuilding is a major industry, and an important source of foreign revenue. In less than 30 years, from the time when Japanese shipyards lay in ruins at the end of World War II, the shipbuilding industry here has grown to the largest in the world, capturing 48 per cent of the world market.

Immediate Future Bright Despite a recession in the last 18 months and the revaluation of the yen, which resulted in losses of about $1 billion for the industry, the immediate future looks bright, and there is a three-year backlog of ships to be built.

Three hundred thousand ton ships now are common. One industry expert foresees the day when a one-million-ton ship will roll down the ways.

Japanese shipbuilders have been able to build new shipyards based on the computer age. Whereas shipyards in other countries have to struggle with confined space and outmoded building techniques, the Japanese have designed and built spacious shipyards which are almost entirely computerized.

One such shipyard is in Tsu, about 250 miles southwest of Tokyo on Japan's eastern coast, where the shipbuilding division of Nippon Kokan (Japan Steel Co.) has built a shipyard with a drydock capable of building two 600,000-ton ships at the same time.

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market was in its fourth straight setback Thursday after a rally attempt fizzled. Trading was slow.

Analysts said the market's inability to sustain the rally had triggered more sales. Prices continued to be depressed by concern about the economic proposals advanced by South Dakota Sen. George McGovern in his bid for the Democratic presidential nomination, analysts added.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials, which had been up nearly 5 points earlier, finished off 2.78 at 941.30. The latest drop in the blue-chip indicator brought its total loss so far this week to some 20 points.

Declines on the New York Stock Exchange led advances by 3 to 2 at the close, although they had trailed the gainers for most of the session.

Losses ran through motors, mail order retail, electronics and rails. Farm implements and building materials were higher. All other groups were mixed.

Big Board turnover fell to 13.82 million shares, from 15.23 million Wednesday. On the American Stock Exchange, volume rose to 4.33 million shares from 3.99 million Wednesday.

The most-active issue was Levitz Furniture, off 2% at 38%. The stock closed off 6 Wednesday, the day after the company announced the resignation of its president, Leon J. Levitz. Last week the Securities and Exchange Commission accused the company of violating federal securities laws.

Of the 1,730 issues traded on the Big Board, 801 declines and 541 advances. New yearly lows were reached by 97 issues and highs by 23. Of the 1,190 issues traded on the American Stock Exchange, 556 declined, and 340 advanced.

The New York Stock Exchange index of some 1,300 common stocks declined 0.18 to 59.63. The American Stock Exchange index slipped .05 to 27.51. The Associated Press 60 stock average was off 1.4 at 326.3. Industrials were off 1.8, rails were off 1.1 and utilities were off .5.

The number of blocks of 10,000 shares or more traded on the Big Board dropped to 102 from a revised total of 113 Wednesday.

The largest bloc was 95,300 shares of Chase Manhattan Corp., which traded at 57%, unchanged.

On the Over-the-Counter market, the NASDAQ composite index rose 0.07 to 131.07.

Abandon Hope For Miners

WANKIE, Rhodesia (AP) — Hope has been abandoned for the 424 coal miners trapped for two days in the Wankie coal mine, the chairman of the company announced Thursday. The bodies of seven men have been recovered, and eight workers were injured.

The chairman, Sir Keith Acutt, said the rockfalls and damage to the ventilation system resulting from three massive explosions Tuesday and the poisonous air that filled the mine afterward "leaves no cause for hope."

He said all indications were that the men died instantly. A death toll of 431 would be Africa's second worst mining disaster, exceeded only by the 437 killed in 1960 at Coalbrook, South Africa.

Fanzone Sparks Cubs By Dodgers

LOS ANGELES (AP) — For years, Carmen Fanzone, 29, a "rookie," has begged to play in the majors, pointing to successful seasons in the minors—eight of them.

But few listened to his pleas. Finally the Chicago Cubs purchased the first baseman-third baseman-outfielder from the Boston Red Sox. They sent him back to the minors.

He got a call late last season, slugged a couple of homers for the Cubs but had to battle again this spring to make the club.

Now it seems like a long distance from the minors. Fanzone may be in the majors to stay.

Wednesday night, he slammed a mammoth home run, a three-run shot to center field. Billy Williams also homered as the Cubs whipped Los Angeles, 5-1, to trim the Dodgers' lead in the National League West to one-half game over surging Cincinnati.

Los Angeles will attempt to cling to its slim advantage tonight in the final game of the three-game series with the

Bases Full Walk In 18th Inning Lets Bucs Sweep

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Gene Alley drew a bases-loaded walk in the 18th inning to break a scoreless deadlock and carry Pittsburgh to a 1-0 victory over the San Diego Padres for a sweep of their Wednesday twilight doubleheader.

The Pirates, who moved within 2½ games of first-place New York in the National League East, won the opener 12-5 as Willie Stargell drove in five runs with his 12th and 13th home runs to lead a 20-hit attack.

Al Oliver opened the 18th inning of the nightcap by beating out a chopper to loser Mike Corkins, 0-2, and Stargell followed with a single down the third base line.

Richie Hebner struck out swinging but, on the pitch, Oliver and Stargell pulled a double steal.

Bill Mazeroski, batting for winner Bob Miller, was walked intentionally before Alley drew the walk that forced over the only run, ending the marathon.

Miller, the fourth of five Pittsburgh pitchers, raised his record to 4-1. The five hurlers limited the Padres to just six hits while the Pirates had 12, eight of them off San Diego starter Clay Kirby, who departed for a pinch-hitter after 13 innings.

STATE SENATE OKS PARAMEDICS' USE IN HOSPITALS

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — Legislation allowing hospitals to use paramedics to treat patients at the scene of serious accidents has been approved by the Illinois Senate and sent to the House.

The measure, approved 36-2 Wednesday, requires physicians to train the paramedics and certify that they are qualified to care for patients.

Paramedics are trained to get to the scene of an accident quickly and, consulting with physicians by radio or telephone, administer emergency treatment to those injured.

Sen. John Graham, R-Barrington, said local governments want paramedic legislation because policemen and firemen already are doing the job but have no protection against liability.

Sen. John Knuppel, D-Petersburg, a recent heart-surgery patient, said that, in his case, the best treatment was "a heavy foot on the starter."

Knuppel said the bill frees the paramedics from liability as long as they are en route with a patient to the hospital and in communication with a physician.

Funds OK'd For Radio Free Europe

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Foreign Relations Committee has voted to authorize $38,520,000 for Radio Free Europe and Radio Liberty during the fiscal year starting July 1.

The committee, by a 10 to 3 vote Wednesday, overrode the opposition of its chairman, Sen. J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., and of Senate majority leader Mike Mansfield of Montana.

The total was the amount sought by the administration for the two stations. They broadcast news and opinion into Eastern Europe from transmitters in Western Europe.

Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, failed 9 to 4, on a motion to cut the authorization to $36 million. Church was joined by Mansfield, Fulbright and Sen. Stuart Symington, D-Mo., in voting for the cut.

The two stations were financed for about 20 years by the Central Intelligence Agency, but widespread opposition to concealed CIA influence moved Congress to require public financing last year.

At that time Fulbright and others argued that the stations are simply propaganda remnants of the cold war and should be phased out.

STROKE DIAGNOSIS, PROGRAM FOR PMAH MEDICAL MEETING

Dr. Kenneth R. Smith, Jr., director of the Bi-State Regional Medical Program Diagnostic Demonstration Unit for Stroke, will be the featured speaker at the Passavant Memorial Area hospital medical staff meeting at Jacksonville on Tuesday, June 13, at 12 noon.

Dr. Smith, also chairman of the department of neurological surgery at St. Louis University School of Medicine, will discuss Stroke Diagnosis and the Bi-State Regional Medical Program. The purpose of the project is to improve care of stroke patients in the Bi-State Region.

The project, with offices at St. Louis University hospital in St. Louis, Missouri, is one of five funded through the Bi-State Regional Medical Program, 607 North Grand Blvd., St. Louis, Missouri, under a grant from the Regional Medical Programs Service of the Health Services and Mental Health Administration of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

Just What Are Refined Foods?

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

Dear Dr. Lamb — Several months ago you ran an article about refined foods and colon diseases. You said the U.S. has a higher rate of colon disease than certain other countries. I didn't quite grasp the article because I didn't know what you meant by "refined foods." You mentioned that bran is good to take. Please tell me what refined foods are and just how do they affect the colon. Besides bran what else can a person eat to avoid this colon problem? I eat a good amount of egg yolks, cakes, candy, fried foods, bread and other fattening foods. I am 24 years old. Do you think I should start cutting these foods out of my diet.

Dear Reader — Yes, I do. The time to start doing something about staying young and healthy is while you still are — not after you have already lost your youth and your health. Cakes and candy are good examples of refined foods. Generally, refined foods refers to sugar which is a refined product leaving almost nothing but pure carbohydrate without minerals, roughage or vitamins. White flour has had the husk and germ of the wheat removed and even though it is enriched by vitamins to the point that it usually has more vitamins than the original wheat, it still has lost a lot of the roughage quality that comes with normal wheat grain. Cake flour is often much worse, being devoid of many of the vitamins that normally occur with wheat.

Refined foods are items which are made principally of refined sugar, syrups, and other concentrated sweets. This also includes most bread. The roughage foods that most people should eat include the vast array of good wholesome vegetables and fruit. This also includes whole grain products like oatmeal, cracked wheat, and other whole cereal products.

The refined foods without bulk lead to constipation, irritable colon, colitis and on a worldwide epidemiological analysis constitutes a major portion of the diet of those people who have a higher incidence of cancer of the colon. We do know that eating more roughage, usually is very helpful in relieving the common problem of constipation and irritable colon in many people.

Dear Dr. Lamb — Are gelatin tablets fattening? I am taking them for nails and hair, but will discontinue usage if they create a weight problem.

Dear Reader — Gelatin tablets have very few calories because they contain no fat or sugar. You would have to take an awful lot to significantly increase your caloric intake.

First Aid

NEW YORK (UPI)—Scrubbing well all over with brown laundry soap such as Fels Naptha still is recommended when one comes down with poison ivy or poison oak. Let the air dry you. Do not use a towel. For best results, leave the good scrubbing, leave a layer of lather all over.

Dental Emergency

NEW YORK (UPI)—If you're on a picnic or a hike and otherwise out of reach of a dentist and a filling comes out this summer, fill the hole with bubble gum. Dentists may not agree, but an out-door type at the Newsfeature Department of United Press International claims the technique has helped him a few times during dental emergencies. Hold gum in place with your tongue, applying a little pressure now and then.

Double Talk Natural Language Of Politics

Double talk is the art of saying one thing while thinking another. Politics is the art of doing one thing while saying you'll do another. Thus, the two are inseparably linked.

For the benefit of the uninitiated, here are a few typical examples of political double talk. In each case the speaker's quoted remark is followed by translation of its real meaning:

"Since you're my campaign manager, Mike, I appreciate your suggestions as to what we should concentrate on trying to push over from here on in."—You just raise the money, Mike. Big Daddy will raise the issue.

"I wouldn't stoop to low and unprincipled practices for the mere sake of winning public office."—Anybody too noble to roll up his sleeves and start stuffing ballot boxes doesn't belong in this game.

"I'd be the last man to say that anybody can fool all the public all the time."—But I'll always be the first guy willing to try to.

"All I can say is that if this campaign, which started on an exalted note, is to degenerate into filthy mud slinging—"—Please pass me a bigger bucket of it.

"I tell the world now that I will make no political deal whatsoever with my opponent."—Guarantee me the vice presidency, and I'll throw in my towel right now.

"As a rich man himself, my opponent has no worry where his next contribution is coming from. He can always tap himself.—I wish I was a sugar tree, so I could too. But all I give is sap.

"My opponent's unsavory behavior stinks to the holy eye of heaven."—I wish my speechwriter would quit mixing his metaphors. Even I know that eyes can't smell.

"No one can deny that since the federal highway program shifted gears, it has rolled up a lot of mileage under its belt."—I'm not just going to fire my speechwriter: I'm going to kill him.

"Time may dim the luster of some of the issues I have raised, the years may throw dust on the present importance of the problems I have brought to your attention, but one thing about this campaign will never be forgotten in the pages of our national political chronicles."—The fact is that it raised the fattest public yawn in history.

Double talk is politics aloud, politics aloud is all double talk.

New GE Elec-Trak Tractor goes easy on you

Easy to start. Turn the key and it's on, like a light!

Easy on the nerves. No noisy engine, runs on silent electric current.

Easy to run. The whole family can, (and does) mow lawns, throw snow, plow ground, etc. As safe as technology can make it. Now up to three acres without re-charging. "refuel" by plugging into any standard outlet.

Easy to maintain. No plugs, no points, no grease jobs, no oil changes. Just batteries and a simple electric motor.

*Batteries warranted five years on models E20, E25, E32, E34, E36; three years on model E22.

Easy to buy. We have a complete line and convenient terms. Come in for a free demonstration.

Free mower at participating dealers with any GE Elec-Trak Tractor during our special Spring Introductory Sale.

From $795.

Manufacturer's suggested retail price for E 20 plus taxes, set-up, freight charges if any.

Consult dealer listed below for their actual prices and terms in effect.

Oregon Man Killed, Wife Critical After Car-Truck Accident

A 51-year-old Oregon man was killed and his 45-year-old wife critically injured in a head-on car-truck accident one mile west of Alexander on U.S. 36 shortly before 11 a.m. Thursday.

Coroner John B. Martin identified the victim as Arnold Brock, Sr., 51, of Milton-Freewater, Oregon. Brock's wife, Oma, 45, was rushed to Passavant Hospital for treatment of injuries, then dispatched to Memorial Hospital in Springfield for further specialized treatment.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Brock were pinned in their car for several minutes while members of the Jacksonville Rescue Squad extricated them from the wreckage along with help from bystanders and state police.

They were taken to the hospital by Lowe ambulances. Mr. Brock was pronounced dead moments after arriving at the hospital.

Head-On Collision

Investigating state police said the accident happened as the eastbound auto driven by Brock collided head-on with a westbound tractor-trailer unit driven by James F. Loos, 39, of New London, Mo., and owned by C. L. Connors of Quincy.

A second westbound tractor-trailer unit driven by Jerry A. Homan, 37, of St. Joseph, Mo., was slowing for a truck making a right turn into a private driveway. Homan's truck did not stop but did slow, according to troopers.

Loose, also westbound, attempted to stop behind the Homan truck, but was empty and apparently the brakes did not hold. The tanker operated by Loos skidded into the left rear of the tractor-trailer ahead of him, then into the eastbound lane of traffic where he met the Brock auto head-on.

The cab of the unit driven by Loos was demolished in the crash but he escaped serious injury. He was walking around the scene and later was taken to Passavant Hospital by state police for treatment of minor injuries.

The truck blocked the highway both ways for almost an hour while rescue crews first concentrated on removing the accident victims from the auto, then wrecker crews removing the truck to permit traffic to flow.

State police estimated damage to the truck and car at nearly $20,000.

The Oregon couple was enroute to Dayton, Ohio, from Milton-Freewater, Oregon, to visit a son. They were also scheduled to visit in Kentucky with a daughter. Milton-Freewater is located in northeastern Oregon, about 20 miles south of Walla Walla, Wash.

The body of Mr. Brock was removed to the Cody and Son Memorial Home and will be sent to Oregon for services and burial.

Grain Elevator Failures Subject Of Senate Bill

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — The Illinois Senate approved a bill Thursday to stiffen bond requirements for grain elevators as a safeguard against financial failure.

The bill advanced to the House on a vote of 31-2, with 30 required for passage.

Sen. Clifford Latherow, R-Carthage, said the measure was intended to stem the rash of 14 grain elevator failures in recent months.

Latherow said the backbone of the bill was a new mandatory minimum bond of $25,000 to qualify for state license as a grain warehouse. Currently, a bond may be waived.

In addition, the bill says the state may require that the bond be raised to as much as $100,000.

Latherow noted that the Senate passed the Illinois Department of Agriculture annual budget Thursday with $140,000 earmarked for extra auditors and inspectors.

Sen. Everett Laughlin, R-Freepoint, opposed the bonding bill because "when an elevator outfit goes broke, $25,000 is a drop in the bucket."

"This is designed," Laughlin said, of the bill, "to make these people buy bonds. If enough people buy bonds, you get people to spread the risk."

Sen. John Knuppel, D-Petersburg, commended the bill as a step toward meeting the problem of covering losses of farmers when grain warehouses go bankrupt. "The farmers are left holding the bag," he said.

Knuppel said a recent elevator failure in his district caused a loss of $400,000. He said the warehouseman had a $100,000 bond and $100,000 of grain on hand. "That is the first bond on which there has been recovery in the State of Illinois," Knuppel said in reference to grain elevator failures.

A.F. Honor To Local Cadet

U.S. AIR FORCE ACADEMY, Colo. — Cadet Neal D. Coyle, 23, son of Mrs. Phyllis N. Coyle, 138 Caldwell, Jacksonville, Ill., has won the Outstanding Cadet Group Commander Award in the Air Force Academy graduating Class of 1972.

Neal D. Coyle

The award was presented June 3 in the Academy, north of Colorado Springs, Colo.

Coyle graduated from the Academy June 7 with a bachelor of science degree and was commissioned a second lieutenant in the U.S. Air Force. He and some 750 other young men will receive their diplomas following a commencement address by Dr. Robert C. Seamans Jr., secretary of the Air Force.

Following graduation Coyle will attend pilot training at Vance Air Force Base, Okla.

At the Academy Coyle was named to the Superintendent's List for excellence in academics and military training for six of eight semesters.

He was selected for the award for performance as commander of the First Group, one of four groups which comprise the Cadet Wing, the student body. Each group is made up of 10 cadet squadrons and consists of about 1,000 cadets.

He was also chairman of the Cadet Public Relations Committee and a member of the mechanical engineering club.

A 1967 graduate of Jacksonville High School, Coyle was a member of the National Honor Society.

He attended Illinois College in Jacksonville, for a year before entering the Air Force Academy. There he was a member of Sigma Pi men's society.

The Group Commander Award is presented by the Ladies Auxiliary to the Veterans of Foreign Wars in memory of Major General Oscar Westover.

A 1906 graduate of West Point, Gen. Westover was assistant chief of the Army Air Corps from 1935-38. He was killed in an aircraft crash in September 1938.

Westover Air Force Base, Mass., is named in his memory.

The U.S. Air Force Academy is a four-year college dedicated to training career Air Force officers.

Bipartisan Support For Tax Levy Freeze

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — Legislation to freeze most real estate tax levies at present levels over the next two years appeared Thursday to have a good chance of becoming law.

The bill, discussed in the House for more than two hours, received the endorsement of Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie and was praised by members of both parties as temporary relief on property taxes.

The tax freeze would not be applicable to a number of special taxes, including those used to finance elementary and secondary education.

Ogilvie in a statement said it would be "a first step" in halting the rapid rise of property taxes and added: "It is my hope that in the near future, we shall be able to take actions which will guarantee a reduction in these ... tax levies."

The bill, sponsored by more than 30 legislators including leaders of both parties, was moved to the amendment stage after a two hour session of a House Committee of the Whole.

During that hearing representatives of the Illinois Agriculture Association, State Civic Federation and the Illinois Taxpayers Association praised the legislation. There were no witnesses in opposition.

"When you can't even afford to own a home because the taxes on it are too high, it's time that we in the legislature do something about it," declared Rep. C. L. McCormick, R-Vienna, one of the sponsors.

Supporters said, however, that the freeze, which would be applicable to homeowners and corporations alike, would be of "considerable benefit" without resulting in a decrease in services.

Property taxes are used primarily to finance municipal and some county operations and the schools.

Dan Baldino of the State Civic Federation testified that "this is going to require some belt tightening, its going to require some austerity (by municipalities) ... and it's going to be a tough bullet to bite."

Baldino said that from 1966 to 1971 property taxes in Chicago have been extended by 73 per cent. Other witnesses said that from 1960 to 1970 the taxes were extended by 86 per cent for farmers downstate.

Although saying that they are in favor of some tax reform programs, some Democratic legislators indicated opposition to this particular bill because, they said, it would hurt "every public body that is growing."

McCormick said he would be open to a possible amendment to include additional exemptions to the legislation, perhaps including communities who are undergoing an unusual amount of growth and need additional revenues over the next two years.

Two-Car Mishap Injures Three On Thursday

Three persons were injured in a two-car accident at 5 p.m. Thursday.

Barbara C. Richmond, 27, of 863 Hardin, was reported in "satisfactory" condition Thursday night at Passavant hospital, suffering from head and chest injuries.

The two occupants in her car, 10-month-old Dean Arthur Richmond and five-year-old Tracey Anne Richmond, were treated and released at the hospital.

According to city police, the Richmond auto was northbound in the 700 block of S. Clay when it was struck at the intersection of Clay and Kentucky by an eastbound car driven by William Bacon, 82, of 1635 S. Clay.

There were no traffic controls at the corner. Bacon was ticketed for failure to yield right of way.

Old Ice Plant Hit By Fire Thursday Night

Firemen battled a blaze in the old Jacksonville Ice and Cold Storage Co. plant in the 400 block of North Main St. about 11 p.m. Thursday.

Firemen had the blaze under control shortly after arriving at the scene.

It appeared that the fire had spread through the first and second stories of the abandoned brick building. No estimate of the damage to the building or the cause of the fire was available Thursday night.

In the past, the building had been frequently entered by kids but the windows have been boarded up recently.

JACKSONVILLE FIREMEN, members of the Morgan County Rescue Squad, work to free an Oregon couple pinned in the wreckage of their auto Thursday morning a mile west of Alexander on U.S. 36. Both occupants were removed from the car and rushed to Passavant Hospital. The driver died soon after arrival at the hospital and his wife was later taken to Memorial Hospital in Springfield for specialized treatment.

Caller for the dance will be Max Roberts.

Personals — Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Stephens have returned to their home in Cincinnati, Ohio after being called here by the illness and death of her mother, Mrs. Carle Townsend.

Meets To Consider Emergency Rate Hike

By OLIVER WIEST

The city's Water Committee met Thursday night to consider proposals for an emergency rate increase to head off an imminent financial crisis.

Only two members of the five-man committee attended the meeting which was called at the suggestion of Don Houser, a Water Committee consultant from Casler and Associates.

Houser presented a working draft of a rate schedule he said he prepared just prior to last night's meeting. Houser's plan would provide an additional $170,000.

The additional revenue, said Houser, would be used to meet an anticipated increase in operating costs of about $80,000 next year and restore approximately $91,000 to the water department's depreciation account.

Most of the $91,000 earmarked for depreciation expenses has been used to meet the cost of the general obligation bonds that finance the pipeline from the Illinois River. Those bonds have been paid for from department revenues so that no tax levy has been needed.

The proposed rate hike was described as an interim measure to put the Water Department on sound financial footing. An additional increase will probably be needed to finance the cost of capital improvements mandated by the Environmental Protection Agency.

Houser said these improvements would cost "an absolute minimum of $200,000."

In his analysis, Houser estimated that $50,000 would be needed next year to clean the lime beds at the water treatment plant. The lime disposal problem has been an especially difficult one for the Water Department.

Originally, the city planned to install a dewatering process which Houser has estimated would cost about $400,000 to set up and around $70,000 annually to operate.

However, Ted Rammekamp, a special attorney for the Water Department, said last night that he will try to convince the EPA to approve an alternate solution to the lime problem. This would probably be a system of hauling the lime sludge from the plant and burying it.

Houser said that the K. E. Vas Co. just received oral approval and was awaiting written authorization from the EPA permitting him to dispose of the lime sludge. The lime bed cleaning project has been stalled several months.

The other major expenditure facing the Water Department is a project to clean up Mauvaisterre Creek, which the city was recently fined $1,000 for polluting. It was estimated that this may cost in the neighborhood of $100,000-$150,000 for a one-mile section.

Houser said an alternate plan would be to fill in the creek and create a new channel with financial assistance from the state Division of Waterways.

Alderman Donald Votsmier, chairman of the Finance Committee, said one of the basic flaws in the present rate structure is that "two out of every three thousand gallons of water are sold for 28 cents."

This is the rate charged the largest commercial customers.

However, the Water Department lists the cost of treating 1,000 gallons of water at 56 cents.

Under Houser's rate plan, the largest commercial customers would pay around 63 cents per thousand gallons. There seemed to be agreement among the aldermen present that the commercial customers should pay at least the city's cost for their water.

Houser said, that in preparing his proposal, he used the same proportions among the various rate classifications as were used in the recent sewer rate increase. The large commercial users have contracts which stipulate that their rate may not be increased proportionally more than any other class of customer.

The customer at the bottom of the consumption scale would pay a rate increase of ten cents — from $1.25 to $1.35 per thousand gallons — if Houser's plan were adopted as presented Thursday night.

However, it was emphasized that the figures quoted last night were rough approximations and that several revisions may be expected before the plan reaches the council floor.

Vanishing Water — Ald. Joseph Tomlovich, a member of the Water Committee, led off the meeting by pointing out a part of the Water Department's monthly report showing about 22 million of the 97 million gallons of water treated that month was unaccounted for.

"This is amazing," he declared.

REPORT BURGLARY — AT MARKHAM

Sheriff's deputies investigated a burglary at the W. R. Grace Co. at Markham Thursday morning. A front door was forced open and thieves made off with an adding machine, small electric heater and 200 pounds of Aatrix. The burglary is still under investigation.

ed, "we're losing a quarter of our water."

Tomlovich asked why there was not a program to repair "slow" meters and crack down on people who were tapping city water mains without bothering with a meter.

Ald. Ken Kolber, chairman of the Water Committee, replied that efforts had been made to hire a man to keep up with the meter problem but that funds were not available.

The freewheeling discussion which followed revealed, among other things, that there were 84 residences and 18 commercial firms that did not have water meters, that the aldermen had been unable to get the cooperation of Utilities Superintendent Robert Jameson in solving the water loss problem, and that political interference from Mayor Lahey was hampering the Water Department's efficiency.

Aldermen asked after the meeting why there were homes and businesses without meters replied that this was probably due to new construction and that meters had not yet been installed.

Bill Terry, head of the Water Department, said that a 12-14 per cent water loss was inevitable under normal conditions.

Attending the meeting were: aldermen Kolber, Tomlovich, Votsmier, Larry Evans, Jimmie Fernandez, Charles Quinn, Ann Jennings; Ted Rammekamp; Don Houser; Bill Terry; Reed Lasley, a Utilities Department accountant.

Aldermen Wilbur DeFrates, Howard Bowe and Warren Massey of the Water Committee were absent.

Democratic Convention Opens Today

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — Democrats from across Illinois meet in Springfield Friday for the opening of the party's state convention.

Keynote speaker of the gathering will be Sen. Adlai E. Stevenson III, an at-large Muskie delegate to the party's national convention.

The chief business of the conclave will be ratification of the at-large delegates and alternates chosen here last week by a caucus of those delegates elected in the March 21 primary.

Besides Stevenson, all the party's nominees for state office in the November election plus Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley, will address the group.

A platform for the state Democratic party will not be drafted until the second adjourned session to be held in Chicago in late August or September.

Party officials estimated that 1,700 Democrats would gather for Friday's meeting. It gets under way at noon in the St. Nicholas Hotel.

The Republican state convention opens June 17 in Rockford.

Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie will be the keynote speaker, with Sen. Charles H. Percy and other Republican candidates also on the bill.

The meeting will draft a party platform, elect 10 at-large delegates to the national nominating convention and choose its slate for the three trustees posts.

Ogilvie has scheduled a reception for delegates and guests the night of June 16.
